EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

POWELL, Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, is an Englishman.

THE Democrats will play the role of obstructionists until buried under Republican votes in November.

PAY having been stopped at Harrisburg the statesmen will soon throw up the sponge and retire to their homes.

THE Democratic House and Democratic Governor have discovered that they cannot impose upon the Republican Senate.

IF you would like to have good men fill the county offices, vote for the Republican nominees. The ticket is composed of capable and worthy men.

"ABOUT forty thousand, I think, will be the Republican majority in Iowa," said GovernorSherman when asked recently what his figures were upon the result this fall.

THERE is a subtle coolness existing between the editor of the Centre Democrat and Mr. McClure of the Philadelphia Times. We pity McC. from the bottom of our heart.

THEY say that the new editor of the Democrat don't approve of any remarks about the "bloody chasm" that used to divide the North and the South; but he is willing to give lessons in the art of using ear-chasm.

MR. BLAINE thinks that the Republican party is in a better condition now than it was immediately previous to the Presidential elections of 1876 and 1880, and that the Democratic party is in a more disorganized condition than it was in those years, and Mr. Blaine is right.

IT will be well to remember that if a voter moves from one borough or township to another, between Friday, September 7th, and Tuesday, November 6th, (election day), he loses his right to vote this year. Whoever does disfranchises himself, because he loses his residence of 60 days and gains none elsewhere. Every voter must reside 60 days in the district where he offers to vote.

AN aeronaut performing on a trapeze attached to a balloon ascended from Pittsburg the other day. When the aerial ship had ascended 7,000 it burst and came down rapidly. The adventuresome aeronaut saved himself by climbing into the balloon and wrapping it about him, the force of contact with the ground being broken. He was, however, almost smothered by gas.

THREE great railroads now stretch across the continent and unite the Pacific with the Atlantic. The last one completed will open up a valuable portion of the public domain and afford quick means of transportation to a region rich in all the elements of agricultural wealth. New states also will soon come into the Union, cities will be built up and a region now wild and almost unexplored will become populous and wealthy. Railroads are the avaunt couriers of civilization and the forerunners of improvement. Without them this mighty nation would not be what it is to-day.

The Two Candidates.

William A. Livsey, our candidate for Auditor General, has had a more than ordinarily eventful life and has been closely identified with this country since 1858, when he went to Lafayette, Indiana, where his uncle's connection with the gas works gave him an immediate position.

He learned his new business thoroughly, and, coming to Pittsburg, was married there in 1860. Thence he soon went to Indianapolis and thence toChicago,having a responsible position in the gas works. In 1862 he returned to Pittsburg and enlisted as a private in a company of scouts. After the war he was employed in the gas works at Watertown, Wisconsin; Selma, Alabama, and other places, but returning to Pittsburg was, in 1871, appointed a clerk in City Treasurer Cochran's office.

He was there retained by Chris. Magee when he became Treasurer, at the same time held the position of chief clerk in the office of the delinquent tax collector. When Butler was elected State Treasurer, he made Mr. Livsey cashier. He held that office of trust until the election of General Bailey, who appointed Captain Nutt, of Uniontown. When Nutt was murdered by Dukes, Livsey was given his place, and was quietly working while the Convention was balloting upon his name.

Jerome B. Niles, the nominee for Auditor General, was born in Tioga County September 25th, 1824. He was educated in the common schools and at Union Academy. He studied law with the Hon. Henry Sherwood, being admitted to the Wellsboro bar in 1861. He at once took an active part in politics as a Republican and was elected District Attorney in 1862. He served as Message Clerk of the House of Representatives during the sessions of 1862 and 1864. Upon the expiration of his term as District Attorney, in 1865, he was again re-elected. He was a member of the House of Representatives during the session of 1869 and 1870 and was elected a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1872-3, in which he achieved some distinction. He was again elected to the House of Representatives in 1880 and re-elected in 1882. During the famous Grow-Oliver Senatorial contest he acted with the fifty-six Grow men who refused to enter the caucus and contributed largely to the final selection of John I. Mitchell as United States Senator. He is a man with a clean record,good ability as a parliamentary debater and during the past session of the Legislature has been recognized as the Republican leader of the House. He will, if elected, make a competent and painstaking official, being possessed of a good knowledge of the tax laws of the Commonwealth. His nomination is an undoubted concession to the Independent element of the party and will doubtless result in bringing a united support to the ticket.

LAND office statistics show that the old refrain still holds good, and "Uncle Sam is rich enough to give all a farm" now, as he was when that once popular song was written. There were 19,035,684 acres of public lands taken up last year, being 5,000,000 more than the year previous, and rather more than the great outcry about the gifts of public lands to corporations would lead one to suppose that the government had still on hand. Of this amount nearly one half—8,172,794 acres—went to actual settlers, under the homestead act, showing that the farming population was growing in proportion to the rest of the country. The people are not congregating in cities to the great extent that was noticed in connection with the financial crash of 1873, though the cities are making progress too. The native population has spread over the farming country, and the statistics of immigration show that very few of those now coming in from Europe remain in the cities; they go west and purchase land for farms. They could probably account for the very large proportion of government land disposed of by sale. The settlers are learning the value of timber, too, for 3,101,433 acres were taken up under the timber culture act, an amount which proves the wisdom of that act and its value as an encouragement to the renewing of the vast tracts annually cleared of timber by the lumbermen Take this immense acreage in connection with the amount sold by the railroads from their liberal grants, which must be vastly larger, since they take great pains to advertise their lands, while the government does not, and it will be seen that the food producing resources of this country are being extended at an enormous rate every year. One only begins to realize how very large a country this is when he contemplates figures like these.

Society at Newport.

An interesting letter in the Evening Post on the dullness of the Newport season attributes this curious fact in part to the hostility between different "sets," and strongly hints that this hostility itself grows out of the suspicion and distrust with which some of the newly rich are regarded there by the permanently but fastidiously poor. This is a risk which society in its present phase of development will have to face and meet with courage and decision. At first it may seem as if it were an old difficulty, but it has assumed proportions which are wholly new and may fairly be called appalling. Until recently the newly rich were "admitted" by society after a more or less careful pass-examination of their credentials, a private comparison of notes by the "leaders" as to their appearance, their manner of dressing, talking, in fact the general suitableness of their behavior for the standards recognized as fitting in social life. Consequently, the newly rich always looked upon their admission as a favor, and used their best endeavors to conform their lives to those of the people who had let them in. The position of wealth, however, as compared with birth, breeding, education, refinement, etc., has so much improved of late years that it is no longer disposed to ask any favors. It feels that it now constitutes the basis of social life, and that instead of asking for admission it ought to impose terms and set standards of its own. It is now engaged in a struggle to establish this right, which, naturally enough, vexes and irritates the conservatives who try to keep up the old relations between things. In the end, of course, the conservatives must go to the wall; but meantime the conflict must tend now and then to eclipse the gayety of fashion.

THE Centre Democrat with its Artist Augustine editor says that the responsibility for the prolonged session of the Legislature rest upon the Republican Senate. We have before this showed that the Democratic House in connection with that young popinjay, Gov. Robert E. Pattison, is responsible for it, and even such a leatherhead as the Centre Democrat should understand it. It was not necessary, in the first place, for the regular Legislature to adjourn, and if there had been no adjournment the extra session with the extra salary up to September 10 would have been impossible. Then, the Democratic House understands perfectly that the Republicans will agree to no Democratic apportionment and might have adjourned long ago and maintained the constitution just as firmly as they do now. Better still, the Democrats might have agreed to a Republican apportionment and thus testified to their love for the Constitution by sacrificing party prejudice to the common good. Nothing possesses the little souls of these Democrats but a love for the $3,000 a day.

The Boss System at Home.

Democrats have orated much about the boss system in politics and they have now an opportunity to show their abhorrence of it. Dr. J. R. Smith, W. C. Heinle and Ellis L. Orvis, the latter better known as Artist Augustine, are the victims, willing or unwilling, of this boss system. The men who rule the Democratic party in Centre county decreed that Dr. J. R. Smith should be nominated for Associate Judge. Indeed, when one man, who momentarily forgot how the bosses told him to vote, cast his ballot for another individual who was his personal choice, he was compelled to change it, to his own humiliation and discomfort. W. C. Heinle, for district attorney, had no opposition. The powers that be were so well pleased with him that they would not listen for a moment to the claims of any other of the numerous Democratic lawyers who considered themselves qualified for the position. He was the choice of the bosses, first, last and all the time. Ellis L. Orvis was allowed to have the nomination for county surveyor merely because he is associated with a wing of the party which is losing power and prestige but nevertheless can make a slight show of strength. All of these candidates are splendid examples of the boss power in politics while the Republican nominees are free and untrammeled.

ON Thursday last a most disgraceful scene was enacted in the State Senate in which Senators Gordon and Kennedy were the principal participants. These young bloods who are so intoxicated by the few months of dominance which they have had that they cannot control themselves, were insolent to the Chairman and that official was compelled to call on the officers of the law to eject them. As a consequence, the Senate Chamber at the evening session, was filled with a miscellaneous crowd of the hoodlums of Harrisburg who came to witness a repetition of the disgraceful scenes. But Gordon and Kennedy were mollified by their treatment during the day and comported themthemselves decently, to the disappointment of the spectators. We appeal to an enlightened people to arise in their might and quell the growing insubordination of the Democratic party. If a few months' triumph will permit such scenes in the halls of legislation what will further encouragement in this direction do?

A COLLEGE professor has just announced his conclusion, after a great deal of investigation, that man is descended from the bear. There will be a general feeling of relief at this announcement. A good many people were unnecessarily worried lest we might be descended from some much meaner animal who will be quite satisfied to trace their descent from the bear. The bear is a very respectable animal, of considerable intelligence and force of character, and hunting around for an ancestor we might have gone further and fared worse. The difficulty with a good many people seems to be that they have not yet got very far away from their ancestor.

An Arctic Failure.

The Greeley relief expedition has proved a failure, one of the vessels sent to find the explorers having been crushed in the ice, and the other having returned to Newfoundland. The fears that are aroused in leaving Lieut. Greeley and his party exposed to a fourth Arctic winter are grave enough; but there is hope that they may yet be rescued, as they are supposed to have provisions to last them a year longer. But no time should be allowed to elapse before another expedition is organized to go in search of them. They were sent into their present peril by the authority of the United States government, and no expense or effort should be spared to secure their rescue. When that work is done, there seems to be no reason why the costly, dangerous and useless efforts to penetrate the polar regions should not be finally abandoned. The good that can be accomplished by sending valuable lives to be lost in Arctic snows and ice, is infinitesimal in comparison with the risks and losses that are inevitable.

THE many visitors to State College during the past two years have been much delighted with the appearance of the grounds around that stately building and especially the flower garden which is laid out in such neat and regular order and in which the flowers blossom as if under the influence of some good fairy. This condition of affairs is largely due to the care and effort of that prince of gardeners, Mr. John Carrigan, who displays such taste and genius in all that pertains to the science of gardening. Prof. Buckhout and President Geo. W. Atherton superintend his efforts and offer many excellent suggestions, and with their united counsel and Mr. Carrigan's practical work the grounds and surroundings are made to blossom as the rose. While at the College recently we plucked a few flowers from the lovely clusters which blossom in the garden and many others who were there did likewise, but the quantity in the garden seemed undiminished. Many large bouquets could be made from the lavish supply without apparently destroying the lovely appearance of the garden. In our mind the College has a priceless jewel in Mr. Carrigan.

THE convention which is engaged in forming a State Constitution for Souther Dakota has taken some votes upon woman suffrage which are of interest in view of the indifferent success of experiments in that direction in some of the Territories. A proposition for the entire equality of women with men in the right to vote was overwhelmingly defeated, receiving only three votes out of a convention of about 120. Afterwards, however, a section was adopted granting to women having the qualifications of age, residence, etc., prescribed for male voters, the right to vote at any election held solely for school purposes, and to hold any office relating to schools. In this action the proposed new State will be following in the footsteps of a number of the older States.

STATEMENTS have just been made from Washington showing the growth of the postal money order system. In the seventeen complete fiscal years that the system has been in operation the amount of money transferred by it has increased from $3,977,000 during the first year to $113,400,000 in the last year. As these figures only indicate transfers of amounts below $50, for people whose circumstances do not allow them to use the banks for that purpose, its great utility to the poorer classes is forcibly demonstrated.

DAKOTA is an enterprising territory. Of this there has been abundant evidence. Just now two rival constitutional conventions are in session, one representing the northern part of the territory, the other the southern part. The principal trouble between them is the title to the territorial name. Both parties are anxious for division but each wants to appropriate the name. It is to be hoped the difficulty will be settled without effusion of blood. In the meantime Dakata is being well advertised. And that is something.

THE Democrats of New Jersey are having such a harmonious, glorious time and perfect peace prevails in their camp! Leon Abbett, a very unpopular individual was nominated by them for Governor on Thursday. Half of the prominent Democrats threaten to bolt with a strong probability that they will do so. New Jersey can be included among the Republican states this fall.

GENERAL NOTES.

Women flag railroad crossings in Austria.

New York City has a French population of 75,000.

Accident, fire and pestilence have killed 71,000 people this year.

A sunflower at Newburg, N. Y., is fifty inches in circumference, stands fourteen feet high, and some of its leaves are eighteen inches in width.

John Houghton, of Hamilton, Ga., cut down a hollow tree and found six coons, two 'possums, a chicken snake eight feet in length, and five gallons of honey in it.

A Texas hen sat for three days on a nest full of hailstones before she discovered her error. If this had been a Minnesota hen, the recent cyclone would be explained.

Shirt-tail Bend, Whiskey Flat, Puppytown, Wild Yankee Ranch, Loafer's Ravine, Squitch Gulch, Toenail Lake, are a few of the names of places in Butte county, Cal.

A steam fire engine company went from Mifflintown, Pa., to Lewistown by rail at their own expense to extinguish a fire, and were compelled to pay toll on crossing the bridge.

At Glendive, Montana, a small watermelon sells readily for $2.50; three small apples, 25 cents; lager beer, 25 cents a glass, and all other things in proportion. Nothing is sold for less than 25 cents.

Since the opening of the line from Baku to the Black Sea petroleum has become so cheap that it is to be used as fuel for the British fleet. Its heating power is estimated as being twice that of the best of coal.

A boy of 16 and a boy of 18 fought a duel at Richmond,Va. The difficulty was caused by a miss of 15. The difficulty was smoothed over after a miss on both sides. The deadly toy pistol did not figure in the affair.

Little Chief, a Cheyenno, has sent an application to Secretary Teller for a new suit of clothes. "I don't care much for grub," he writes, "but I do like to dress in proper style. I want the best white hat you can purchase in the market."

There is an old lady named Brown living in Hinton, Mich., whose hair is turning from gray to its original color, and she is now cutting her third set of teeth. For several years she has had her second eyesight and can see to do fine work as well as anybody.

Miss Henderson went to Pierre, Dakota, to be married to J. B. Scott; but Scott died before the time set. At the funeral Miss Henderson told the sympathizing friends that Scott was the fourth man to whom she had been engaged, and that all had died before the time fixed for the nuptials.

Mr. David Jones, a mining engineer, has just sent to England a formal report in which he states there is good ground for believing that there are abundant coal mines in South Africa. The coal which has already been mined is rather poor in quality, but it is steadily becoming better.

A man employed on the West Shore railway was struck by a locomotive near Schenectady the other day and thrown from the track. It was learned afterward that the engine had struck him squarely on the back of the head, on a spot where he had been struck years before by a large stone. The fellow yet lives to puzzle the doctors by his abnormally tough skull.

Henry Harris, of Merriweather, Ga., claimed to have some bullfrogs on his place which made a business of swallowing young chickens and ducks, but nobody believed him. Last week, hearing a furious commotion among his ducks at the pond, he ran down in time to capture an immense frog that had nearly finished swallowing a young duck. Mr. Harris placed the frog, which was one of the largest ever seen in that vicinity, in a box and carried it to town, where he exhibited it to the awe-stricken natives. The legs of the duck were just visible in the throat of the croaker. He intended to make a tour of the newspaper offices of that portion of the State to exhibit the monster, but it died before he got out of town.

WAITING FOR A LETTER.

The postman's hour draws near,
And into the quiet street
Through gossamer curtains peer
Two wistful eyes and sweet.
For many a weary morn
She has kept her station there,
That brave little heart forelorn,
That never will quite despair.
Slowly she turns away,
The crushed heart murmuring still,
"It has not come to-day—
To-morrow I know it will."

The postman knows her tale,
And it makes his old heart bleed;
Those blush-rose cheeks grown pale
Are pages a child might read.
Ah! letters enough he brings—
Great circulars blue and grim,
Slight feminine scented things—
But never a line from him.
Slowly she turns away,
The crushed heart murmuring still,
"It has not come to-day—
To-morrow I know it will."

Rat-tat! to the door she flies—
O rapture keen and dumb!
O eloquent cheeks and eyes!
Her letter has come—has come!
O postman pocket the gold—
Full well thou hast earned the fee—
And treasure the thanks untold,
That are better than gold to thee!
Flow, happy fountains, flow,
Sweet founts that have long been dry!
Sorrow may tears forego,
But rapture must weep or die.

BELLES IN THE SWELLS.

Hear the cultured bathing belles—
Boston belles!
With their learned disputations over ocean's musty shells,
How they lecture, lecture, lecture,
Even at the water's brink,
On the interesting texture
On some weed, 'till you expect you're
Dumber than the missing link!
And they sputter, sputter, sputter,
In a manner quite too utter,
As their stockings blue are hidden by the swells.
Oh, the belles, belles, belles, belles,
Belles, belles, belles,
Oh, the learning and discerning of the belles.

Hear the joyous bathing belles—
New York belles!
With their eyes filled up with pleasure and their mouths with caramels,
How they giggle, giggle, giggle,
Splashing water in the air!
How they grab the rope and wriggle
Talking all at once, and higgle
As to who'll first wet her hair!
And they shriek, shriek, shriek,
In a manner quite unique,
As their dainty feet are scratched by horrid shells,
Oh, the belles, belles, belles, belles,
Belles, belles, belles,
Oh, the flirting and diverting of the belles.

Our Story Teller.

The Asylum Girl.

"Another girl from the asylum!" said Captain Colquitt, with a comical gesture of despair. "My dearest mother, will you never outgrow that notion of yours that an unkempt charity child is a better servitor than a trained metropolitan maid?"

"Well, my dear," answered the good natured little matron, who, in her rustling black silk dress and violet cap-ribbons, looked exactly like the pictures of "An Old Lady" which we sometimes see in the Academy Exhibitions, "I've always had very good luck with the poor things. And if one can do any good in the world——"

"One of 'em had the small-pox, hadn't she?" said Captain Colquitt. "It seems to me that I remember hearing something about it when I was with the regiment in Florida."

"But that wasn't her fault, you know," said Mrs. Colquitte, mildly.

"And another ran away with your opal earrings!"

"I'm afraid she did," said Mrs. Colquitt, slowly shaking her head. "But it was my fault for leaving them out on the dressing table. 'Lead us not into temptation,' you know. And, after all, they are what superstitious people call an unlucky jewel. I'm not certain that I was not glad to be rid of them, on the whole."

"Mother," cried the young man, laughing, "you are the most persistent optimist I ever knew in my life. But, if I have a deep-rooted prejudice against asylum girls——"

"I shall be very sorry to send Mattie away," said Mrs. Colquitt, seriously. "But, if you make a point of it, Leslie——"

"My valet, Ford, has a daughter, who will take the asylum girl's place as your maid," said Captain Colquitt. "A very steady, well-trained girl, with a real genius for bonnet-crimming and hair-dressing—and I should really like to oblige Ford, he is such a faithful fellow."

"Very well," said Mrs. Colquitt, meekly. She was one of the yielding, gentle-natured sort, who invariably gave in. During her husband's lifetime he had always ruled her; and now that she was a widow, Captain Leslie Colquitt domineered over her in a caressing sort of way.

"She is the dearest little mother in all the world," said Captain Colquitt. "But she's always going off on a tangent, like a child after a new butterfly! And charity is the worst of her delicious failings. If once I can get Beulah Ford into the house, I think I may count myself tolerably free from asylum girls!"

"Are they so very annoying?" said Major Helmdale, his faithful confrere and companion in arms.

"My dear fellow," cried the captain, with a comprehensive gesture, you cannot imagine how I have been tormented by the race. Red-headed, blue-nosed, clumsy, generally afflicted with catarrh, always precipitating themselves into the path of events with no more judgment than a poodle dog,—home has been actually hideous to me on account of the Asylum girls. Because my mother thinks it her duty to immolate herself at the Good Samaritan shrine, I don't see that it's mine to endure the trials!"

"Of course not," said Helmdale with a yawn. "And Miss Wynchester, the famous beauty, is to be there, you say?"

"She has promised my mother to be there for a week, if she can induce the Judge to bring her during cherry-time."

"Ah!" said Helmdale. "That will be very pleasant. I've always felt a devouring curiosity, don't you know, to see Miss Wynchester."

And he fell to smoking more energetically than ever.

Hugo Helmdale was a magnificent young athlete with a figure like Apollo, a deep, sweet voice, and the sort of blind, dogged, physical courage which constitutes a hero in women's eyes. Leslie Colquitt was a dashing soldier, with dark, glittering eyes, a Spanish mustache, and a caressing softness of manner which did more execution than his broad-sword. Miss Wynchester was doubtless a famous beauty; but Miss Wynchester had no idea of the two officers of the Central Government Artillery, who were to be temporarily quartered at Colquitt Manor House, or she might have taken more pains in burnishing up her weapons for conquest!

"Oh, must I go away, dear Mrs. Colquitt?" pleaded Mattie May, bursting into tears.

"Indeed, my dear," said the old lady, with a puzzled countenance, "I don't see any other way to do. Leslie wants me to take his valet's daughter,—a very nice young woman, I am told,—and I dare say she'll make a very efficient maid!"

"But what am I to do?" said Mattie May, piteously.

"My dear, don't fret, now don't," said Mrs. Colquitt, soothingly. "You may just stay in the little room in the north tower,—it's quite a habitable spot there, you know,—and finish that piece of Renaissance tapestry for me. It's been on the frame so long that I'm quite sick of the sight of it!" "Am I to go into retreat, like a nun in a convent?" demanded Mattie.

"My dear, what a question?" said Mrs. Colquitt, reproachfully. "As if it were my fault that my son's valet wanted a place for his daughter! You know very well that I love you dearly, Mattie, and I shouldn't want anything better than to keep you with me always."

"You are a darling!" cried Mattie showering enthusiastic kisses on the old lady's still blooming countenance. "And the very idea of going away from you makes my heart sink down, down into my very boots!"

So Mattie May took the frame of Renaissance embroidery, and went cheerfully into her prison-tower to endure the exile which was to be her doom.

But Mattie May was only human, and on the third day she stole out into the grounds, where a hedge of rhododendrons protected the early roses from any blighting wind, and sat down to work in the green shadow.

A slight, golden-haired little fairy, in a blue muslin dress, with eyes to match—features as perfect as one of Raphael's Madonnas, and the dazzling complexion, which seems equally compounded of roses and snow—she did not dream how perfect a picture she made there, under the ripening cherries of June! But Captain Colquitt saw her as he jumped the fence with his fishing pole poised over his shoulder.

"It's Miss Wynchester," he said to himself. "Taken us by surprise at last, by Jove! But she's not a Juno at all—she's a dimpled Hebe, a beautiful sprite instead!"

The next instant Mattie looked up from her work with a start. Caught at last! Her first idea was to run away, but she instantly perceived the wisdom of maintaining her ground as best she might. And, after all, what had she done to be ashamed of?

Captain Colquitt walked up to her, holding out his hand with chivalric welcome.

"Don't start," he said, "I know who you are! And believe me, I am very, very glad to see you!"

Mattie blushed delightfully. Truly this young Artillery Officer was not as black as he had been painted!

"Are you?" she said. "Oh, I am so glad. Your mother said, she thought——"

"She couldn't have possibly said anything to your disadvantage," said Colquitt, promptly.

"Not that," hesitated Mattie, "but——"

"Then we'll wipe out old scores and begin anew," said Captain Leslie, beamingly. "Are you fond of the river? Yes? My boat has just come. She lies moored at the foot of yonder steps. 'The Elfin,' I call her. Will you honor me by taking a row in her? Now, please, please don't say 'No!'"

"Then I won't!" said Mattie, with sparkling eyes. "How delightful it will be! I never, never could have thought you could be so nice!"

"Now you have roused my curiosity," cried the captain. "What has my mother been saying?"

But Mattie May shook the burnished gold of her curls, and refused, utterly, to enter into particulars!

That cool, delightful row along the blue river—the gleam of the water-lilies, the whistle of the blackbird, the scent of wild roses,—Captain Colquitt never forgot it. Nor did Mattie May. To her life's end it was a red letter day in her calendar!

Altogether, it was a season of adventures to Mattie. When she had left Colquitt, she came upon Major Helmdale, sauntering along the terraces.

"I—I beg your pardon," said the magnificent young officer. "My friend Colquitt——"

"I have just left him," said Mattie, with an imperial motion of her head toward the river below. 'You will find him at the boat-house."

Helmdale bowed once more, and hurried to join his friend.

"Leslie!" he cried, "she is superb! She is a princess!"

"Yes," said Colquitt, calmly. "I have just rowed her down to Pearl Point!"

"Ah, you sly rascal!" cried Helmdale, "you have taken an unfair advantage of me!"

"All is fair in love and war," merrily exclaimed his friend. "But entre nous, Helmdale. I'm desperately in love with her. Rumor has in no way exaggerated her charms. I will win her, or I will perish in the attempt!"

"There may be two words to that, old man!" said Helmdale, pulling energetically at his silken beard.

Mrs. Colquitt met the two young men at the door with gestures of delight, crying.

"She has come. Winifred Wynchester has come!"

"I know it," said Helmdale.

"We have met her," said Leslie. "and we are perfectly delighted with her."

"How can that be?" said Mrs. Colquitt, with a puzzled air, "when she hasn't been out of her room since her arrival?"

"The dear little mother is mistaken said Leslie, fondly smoothing her hand. "She has come, she has seen, she has conquered, this royal Winifred."

"That's very strange," said Mrs. Colquitt. "Very!"

At dinner the gentleman were formally introduced to Miss Wynchester, a tall massively proportioned blonde, with a made up complexion, big violet eyes, and an unmeaning simper. They glanced at each other in amazement, but dared not speak until the last course was removed and they at liberty to smoke their cigars on the lawn. And then Leslie Colquitt beckoned to his mother to join them. She ran out with a white Shetland shawl over her head.

"Say what you have to say quickly, Leslie." said she, "I must not leave Miss Wynchester,"

"Mother," said Leslie, "who is the little elf in the blue gown? With the heaven blue eyes and the cheeks like July peaches?

"Leslie," cried the old lady, "you are crazy!"

"I met her in the rhododendron shrubbery," said Colquitt, impatiently. "Close to the Round Tower gate. Tell me quickly—who is she?"

"Why," cried Mrs. Colquitt, opening her serene eyes very wide indeed, "it can't be! Yet it must! It's Mattie May, the Asylum girl!"

"My dear mother, you are mistaken," said Colquitt, striving desperately to keep his temper. This was a lady,—a white-handed, soft-voiced lady!"

"Well, and so is Mattie," said Mrs. Colquitt. I've brought her up exactly like my own daughter, and she's the sweetest darling that ever was. And oh, I'm so glad you like her."

Once more the captain and major of artillery looked at each other.

"By Jove!" shouted Helmdale, "she's a darling."

"A perfect human rosebud," said Colquitt.

Mrs. Colquitt took the hint, the quarantine was lifted. Mattie May was introduced to Miss Wynchester as "my adopted daughter" instead of "the Asylum girl." and the professional beauty stared to behold herself eclipsed by a mere country chit with no sort of style about her. She went away at the end of a week, and nobody was sorry.

A fortnight after Helmdale followed her example. He had proposed to Mattie May and she had rejected him.

"I wish you better luck, old fellow," he said, huskily, to Captain Colquitt. She is a jewel."

And when a month had passed away Mrs. Colquitt took Mattie tenderly in her arms.

"And you are to be my own daughter after all," said she. "Oh, I am so glad, so glad! I shall love you so dearly."

"So shall I," said Captain Colquitt. And he never had anything more to say against his mother's penchant for Asylum girls.—Shirley Browne.

Carnegie's Ambition.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the great Pittsburg iron master and millionaire, has joined a syndicate of journalists in connection with Mr. Story, M. P., who have for their object the promotion of radicalism in England. The syndicate have invested the sum £400,000 and have acquired the proprietorship of nine evening papers, the London Echo being at the head of the list. These papers are fairly distributed throughout the country, and they will at once commence the dissemination of advanced political theories and teach a policy strangely at variance with the usual run of metropolitan and provincial newspapers. Mr. Carnegie is very anxious to enter parliament, and it is said that he has serious intentions of running for Wolverhampton, where he has a great many friends among the iron manufacturers of the district. His affiliations with members of his own craft are close, and should he be elected from Wolverhampton he would undoubtedly be a strong representative.

The Biblical Record says that a young colored preacher in a recent sermon, wishing to display his learning, would occasionally use the word "Curriculum," and as often as he used it, some one of the sisters said "Glory!"

A Church Centennial Celebration.

From the Altoona Tribune.

The next general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States will celebrate in a proper and most interesting way the one hundredth anniversary of the consecration of the first American bishop. It will assemble in old Christ church, Philadelphia, the same place where a handful of clergy and laity have met 100 years. Bishops from England and Scotland will be present. It most appropriately falls to the lot of the venerable bishop of New York to preach the opening sermon. At the convention in 1785 the delegates met as one body, there being no bishop in this country at that time. Seven states were then represented in the convention, namely, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and South Carolina. Forty five delegates composed the number of the first convention, while in the last convention, 1880, there were 62 bishops and nearly 400 delegates. The first convention was in session but five days, the last convention three weeks. The principal business of the first convention was that of making arrangements to secure a succession of the Episcopate. In 1786 permission to that effect was granted by the church of England. In 1787 Bishops White and Prevost returned to this country, having been consecrated in Lambeth palace. Bishop Seabury, of Connecticut, had previously been consecrated in Scotland. From 1792 until now the church has held her general convention trienally.

There have been thirty-three of these conventions, including two special ones, and there have been 128 bishops consecrated within this century. The conventions have met in New Brunswick, N. J.; New York city, Philadelphia, Trenton, N. J.; Baltimore, Cincinnati, Richmond, New Haven, and Boston. The senior, or presiding, bishops have been Bishop Seabury, of Connecticut; Bishop White, of Pennsylvania; Bishop Griswold, of Massachusetts; Bishop Chase, of Illinois; Bishop Brownell, of Connecticut; Bishop Hopkins, of Vermont, and the present presiding bishop, Right Rev. Benjamin B. Smith, of Kentucky.

At the first convention Rev. William White, D. D., of Philadelphia, was president, and Rev. David Griffith, of Virginia, secretary. The former was bishop of Pennsylvania forty-nine years, and the latter was elected the first bishop of Virginia, but declined the honor. The present presiding bishop, Right Rev. Benjamin B. Smith, is 90 years of age, and has held the episcopate fifty-one years. There have been twelve presidents of the house of deputies, and three of them have been made bishops, namely, White Cross and Burgess. There have been seventeen secretaries of the house of deputies, and five have received the honors of the episcopate, namely, Hobart, Onderdonk, Howe, Randall and Perry, while Bishop Clarkson, of the diocese of Nebraska, was assistant secretary of the house of deputies There have also been seventeen secretaries of the house of bishops, and six of these have been or are now bishops, viz: Hobart, Kemper, B. T. Onderdonk, De Laney and Wainwright, while the present secretary is Rev. Dr. Henry C. Potter.

There are many interesting associations connected with old Christ church, where the first regular convention met in 1785. On the 20th of July, 1775, the continental congress assembled within its walls for worship, that day having been set apart for "general humiliation, fasting and prayer throughout all the American provinces." Benjamin Franklin was a member of the vestry and George Washington was a regular communicant, as well as Robert Morris, the great American financier. The Hon. Francis Hopkinson was volunteer organist at that time. Bishop White was baptized, confirmed and ordained in this old edifice; even the font in which he received his baptism is still in the old spot. The book of Common Prayer as arranged for the American church was ratified here. Peyton Randolf, the first president of the continental congress, appears on the parish record. The parish was organized in 1795, twelve years after the laying out of the city by William Penn. In 1727 the present edifice was constructed wholly out of bricks that were brought from England, and it was nine years in building. In the tower there is a chime of bells that was brought from England and it is said that during the time the British held possession of Philadelphia the bells were sunk in the Delaware river. In the work of restoration the wooden floor has been taken up that covered the original tiling, and here were found in the aisles several tablets bearing the names of the persons buried beneath. Bishop White was buried under the chancel of Christ church. The pew in which Washington sat was removed in 1836 and presented to the keepers of Independence hall, Philadelphia. The communion service consists of seven pieces, all of solid gold and was presented in 1695 by Queen Anne.

France vs. China.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—The National says: Should the pending negotiations between France and China, as is feared, not take a favorable turn, the French cabinet is disposed to call an extraordinary session of the chamber of deputies. It is understood that Challemel Lacour, foreign minister, is in favor of according large concessions to China in the interest of peace. The ministers of war and marine, however, consider it a matter of duty and honor to resist the encroachments of China on Tonquin.

The papers here state that Prime Minister Ferry opposes any concession to China regarding the Tonquin frontier question.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The secretary of the Chinese legation here has left for Walmer Castle, to wait upon Lord Granville, the British foreign secretary. The signs are that the mediation of England in the Franco-Chinese embroglio will eventually be invoked, but no appeal for American mediation is deemed probable.

New Jersey Democrats.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 12.—Nearly all the delegates to the democratic state convention have arrived. Everything is in a state of uncertainty. It is evident that no one candidate possesses strength sufficient to carry the convention on the first or any of the earlier ballots tomorrow. Leon Abbott has led but lacks a majority of over fifty votes, and his strength appears to be weakening. A telegram was received to-night from Joel Parker stating that under no circumstances would he accept the nomination. Albright's following has fallen to pieces. Senator Cochran has developed considerable strength. The convention will cast many ballots before a nominee is selected. Among the "dark horses" mentioned to-night are Judge Whittaker, of Cumberland; General Stockton Cutler, of Morris, and Benjamin F. Lee.

Blaine Denies a Story.

AUGUSTA, Maine, Sept. 12.—Hon. James G. Blaine was called upon this evening for the purpose of ascertaining what foundation there was for the story published Tuesday purporting to give his views touching Butler's political future. Mr. Blaine says the views attributed to him were precisely the reverse of those he held. He said that he did not believe General Butler could be re-elected governor of Massachusetts, and that he had the fullest confidence in a republican president being chosen next year. The republican party, he added, would be found far stronger in the elections of 1884 than they were either in 1876 or 1880.

A Live Man in a Morgue.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Louis Lacy entered a street car in a drunken condition, and refused to pay his fare. The conductor threw him off the platform, and, seeing he did not move, told the driver to whip up, and the car rattled away. The police patrol put the body into a wagon, took it to the Morgue, and placed it on ice. A large force of police was sent in search of the conductor. After being a short time on the ice the body began to show signs of life, and in half an hour Lacy was able to walk to the police station. He was not seriously hurt, and his state of temporary coma was due to liquor.

A STRANGE REMINISCENCE.

The Escape of a well-known ex-Army Surgeon from an Unforeseen Danger.

[Baltimore American.]

Messrs. Editors:

I seldom appear publicly in print, but the facts connected with my experience which follow are so striking, and bear so closely upon the experience of others, that I venture to reproduce them entire:

In the month of September, 1879, I was practicing medicine in New Orleans. The summer had been excessively hot and everybody was complaining of being exhausted and feeling tired. It was not an unfrequent occurrence to have patients ask for something to relieve this weary sensation, and that I should also partake of the same universal lassitude or weakness, did not alarm me. I supposed that over-work and exposure had produced a temporary physical prostration; therefore I made a trip to St. Paul, Minn., thinking that a rest of a few weeks in a cooler climate would soon reinvigorate me. Little did I dream, however, what was in store for me. After getting settled in my new quarters I took a short walk every day, and patiently awaited a return of strength, but in spite of all my efforts I seemed to be losing strength; and even any slight exercise became laborious and tiresome. During this time I had frequent dull aching pains in my head, and through by back and hips, occasional shooting pains in various parts of the body, with soreness, shortness of breath, and palpitation of the heart. My feet and hands would be like ice one day, and burn with heat the next. I had no desire for food, and what I did eat distressed me; my sleep became disturbed with the frequent desire to urinate. The quantity of fluid passed would at one time be quite small and at another quite profuse. Then for days I would be perfectly free from this desire and nothing seemed to be the matter: nevertheless my debility gradually increased. My eyelids were puffed out; my bowels were alternately torpid and too active, the urine would be clear some days, on others it would be of high color and deposit a brick-dust sediment, and at still others there would be a whitish appearance and a thin, greasy scum would rise to the top. The pains in my head, back, chest, joints, bowels and bones were horrible in the extreme. I went in vain from place to place and consulted the best medical authorities the country affords. I would have a chill one day and a burning fever the next. I suffered excruciatingly with a numbness of my feet and hands, and at the base of the brain and between my shoulders; at times my limbs and body would bloat and physicians said I was suffering from the dropsy and could not recover.

How I could be so bliud to the terrible trouble that was devouring me, I do not know; but there are thousands to-day who are suffering from the same cause and are as ignorant of its nature as I was. My skin was the color of marble at one time, and then again it would be like saffron, and this terrible restlessness, and I might say wildness, was followed by a dull, heavy, drowsy sensation. I was wasted to a mere skeleton except when the dropsical bloat occurred. I tried all the celebrated mineral waters of this country and Europe; all kinds of medicine and all kinds of doctors. Still no help came. I lay at my hotel in Philadelphia, where I was temporarily sojourning, given up to die by friends and physicians alike. When there providentially came into my hands a little pamphlet which I carefully read and from which I got a view of my real condition, which no other agency had revealed. Acting on its advice, I had my water analyzed at once, and to my surprise, albumen and tube casts were found in large quantities. A skillful physician was sent for and apprised of the fact. He said I had Bright's disease, and that death was certain. My friends importuned me to take a remedy which had won a great reputation for the cure of all forms of kidney diseases, and I therefore laid aside my prejudice and commenced its use. At first my stomach rejected it and I had to use small quantities; but after the first five days my stomach retained full doses. This was one year ago last October, and my improvement was rapid and permanent. I have regained 50 of the 65 pounds of flesh I lost during my illness, and feel as well to-day as I ever did, and I can unreservedly state that my life was saved by Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the remedy I used.

It may seem strange that I, being a physician and an ex-army surgeon, did not have the water analyzed before; but such is the fact. I had the symptoms of every other disease, and I did not suspect that my kidneys were in the least particular out of order; and here is just where I was in the greatest danger, and where most people who read this article are in danger. I find that I am only one of thousands who are suffering from kidney disorders, which, neglected, surely terminate in Bright's disease. I also know that physicians may treat these disorders for months without knowing clearly what the trouble is, and even after ascertaining the cause, be unable to prevent it. When death, however, finally overtakes the helpless victim they disguise its real cause, attributing it to heart disease, convulsions, apoplexy, vertigo, paralysis, spinal meningitis, blood and uremic poisoning, etc., etc.

Words, of course, fail to express my thanks to H. H. Warner & Co., of Rochester, N. Y., for giving the world such a needed and certain specific as the Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, but such as they are I gladly give them; while to the thousands to whom I have lectured upon the laws of health and hygiene I commend this letter most cordially, and warn them to beware of the insidious nature of a disease over which physicians confess they have no control and which in one form or another is carrying more people to untimely graves than any other malady. EAGLEVILLE, Sept. 11, '83.

MR. EDITOR.—Mrs. Jane Croskey of Wichita, Kansas, wife of Doctor Harry Croskey and sister of Captain J. A. Quigley, has returned on a visiting tour to the home of her childhood. We are made glad because of her presence.

Miss Carrie M. Quigley goes back to-morrow to pursue her studies at Birmimgham, at which place she proposes taking a regular course.

Rev. W. A. Ridge walks very erect recently and has more elasticity in his step than usual. It's a boy.

The abutments for our iron bridge across Bald Eagle creek have been commenced by Contractor "Lyons," and will be vigorously pushed to completion.

Mr. John A. Stull's new house is under roof and is rapidly taking on the appearance of a cozy little dwelling under the go-a-head skill of Glossner & Lynn.

Our churches are in good condition. The Disciples, under the energetic leadership of Elder Blair, are moving quietly and peacefully forward. The Baptists, under the steady ministrations of their pastor W. A. Ridge, are enjoying unusual prosperity. They held a very interesting service on last Sabbath. The object was the ordination of N. H. Lucas to the deaconship of the church, in which they were aided by other Baptist brethren, prominent among whom was George L. Peters of Unionville, who has been a deacon for half a century.

Our public schools will open the middle of October. Miss Laura V. Forseman, who has taught the primary grade in our school for many years, has this fall been promoted (deservedly, too,) to the second grade.

In our next we will write of our mechanics. Till then adieu.

LATROBE.

—The manufacture of steel by the Henderson process, as demonstrated on Tuesday, September 11, is of the utmost importance. The process makes the finest steel from refuse pig iron and will work a revolution in that industry. Mr. D. G. Bush and the Messrs. Rowland, of Brooklyn, who witnessed the test are profoundly impressed with the result. It is another triumph for Mr. Henderson, who is one of the formost inventors of the age, the products of his inventive genius having brought immense fortunes to those who have obtained possession of them, and his discoveries upon which patents have been given aggregating higher in valne than those of any other single individual whose inventions ever came before the patent office. It is probable that the works here will be enlarged to employ about sixty men, but there is no intention of making them extensive. It will serve as a model for manufactories to be located elsewhere. Although if the owners, Messrs. Francklyn and Rowland, who are men of prominence and immense wealth, become convinced that this is as desirable as any other place for the location of large works, they may invest more of their capital here, which we hope will be the case. It may result in being a big drop in the bucket towards the grand total to increase the population of Bellefonte to 40,000 in five years.

—In our notice of the Shaffer--McGinley wedding we neglected to mention that the happy couple were serenaded by the Adelphic Orchestra, who spent perhaps an hour rendering the delightful music for which they are becoming famous for the delectation of the newly wedded pair. If there is a time in peoples' lives when music seems more enchanting than at another it is when they are just married, and those who would like to be enchanted should try it for themselves while there is such an excellent and obliging orchestra in our midst.

A Remarkable Case.

DR. HARTMAN—Dear Sir: I am induced by a sense of duty to the suffering to make a brief statement of your remarkable cure of myself. I was a most miserable sufferer from the various annoying and distressing diseases of delicate persons, which caused me to be confined to my bed for a long time, being too weak to even bear my weight upon my feet. I was treated by the most reputable physicians in our city, each and all saying they could do nothing for me. I had given up all hopes of ever being well. In this condition I began to take your Manalin and Peruna, and, I am most happy to say, in three months I was perfectly well—entirely cured without any appliances or support of any kind.

Yours truly,
MRS. HENRY ELLIS,

"Why—pardon my remarking it—but, my dear old friend, how changed you are. I declare you must have lived very high or very fast to have driven the color out of your hair and the spring out of your step in this fashion."

Looking at the sunset on the river from the grounds of his place up the Hudson, my school chum—who is one of the best known mining experts in the country—answered: "It wasn't fast living did it but dyspepsia and nervous collapse, from over-work. I ought to have stopped years before I did. I was a fool. But who isn't, if you come to that?"

"I am thirty-five years old," writes Mr. Charles H. Watts, of West Somers, Putnam Co., N. Y., "and had suffered from dyspepsia for fifteen years. Went the round of the current remedies, falsely so called. Listlessly and without hope I gave PARKER'S TONIC a trial. The result may be stated in three words: it cured me. I endorse now without hesitation. It is the dyspeptic's refuge.' Mr. G. R Cole, druggist, of Carmel, N. Y., certifies to the truth of Mr. Watts' statement.

HISCOX & Co., proprietors, call especial attention to the fact that this preparation, which has been known as PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, will hereafter be called simply PARKER'S TONIC. As unprincipled dealers are constantly deceiving their customers by substituting inferior articles under the name of ginger, and as ginger is really an unimportant ingredient, we drop the misleading word.

There is no change, however, in the preparation itself, and all bottles remaining in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, contain the genuine medicine if the fac-simile signature of HISCOX & Co. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper.

How Watch Cases are Made.

Most persons have an ambition to carry a gold watch case, and yet few people know how a watch case is made, or the vast difference in the quality of them. In a SOLID GOLD WATCH CASE, aside from the necessary thickness for engraving and polishing, a large proportion of the metal is needed only to stiffen and hold the engraved portions in place, and supply strength. The surplus is not only needless, but undesirable, because gold is a soft metal and cannot furnish the stiffness, strength and elasticity necessary to make the case permanently strong and close-fitting. The perfect watch case must combine gold with some metal that will supply that in which the gold is deficient. This has been accomplished by the James Boss' Gold Watch Case TRADE MARK which saves the WASTE of needless gold, and INCREASES the SOLIDITY and STRENGTH of the case, and at the same time reduces the cost ONE HALF.

Send 8 cent stamp to Keystone Watch Case Factories, Philadelphia, Pa., for handsome Illustrated Pamphlet showing how James Boss' and Keystone Watch Cases are made.

The Fire Record.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Fire this morning destroyed the Brooklyn Felt Hat works of William A. Boglin & Co., and the Novelty straw hat factory, owned by Charles E. Evarts, of Brooklyn. The fire broke out first last night and was extinguished, as was thought, with a loss of about $2,000 on the building and $8,000 on stock and machinery. The fire again broke out this morning, and the structure was all in flames before the firemen arrived. The factory, together with two frame buildings in the rear, belonging to the same company, were destroyed. The loss on the buildings is estimated at $20,000; on machinery, $40,000, on stock, $35,000. The flames then extended to the Novelty straw hat factory, adjoining, and pretty well gutted the place. Evarts says his loss on the building would be about $17,000, and the less on stock and machinery about $25,000 to $30,000.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 14.—Twenty thousand oil barrels, in the cooper shop and adjacent sheds of the Standard oil company, were burned last night, six miles north of this city. Several cars of the St. Paul company and many of the northwestern company, standing on the tracks, were also consumed. Loss about $40,000; no insurance.

CHATHAM, Canada, Sept. 14.—The loss by the burning of the steamer Queen Victoria yesterday was $15,000. The crew barely escaped with their lives, the fireman being severely burned.

A Riot at Hazleton.

NEW YORK September 14.—The following special is printed here, dated Reading, Pa.: "A dispatch from Hazelton says that a fearful riot took place there late yesterday at a coal mine on the upper Lehigh. A number of miners were discharged, and they threatened to destroy the company's property. The constabulary were called out and a terrible fight with pistols occurred. A woman named Harding was struck by a ball and instantly killed. A youug girl of 6 years was also instantly killed. Police Captain Hines was shot through the hand. Nine miners were arrested, and eleven revolvers found on their persons. A number of men were slightly wounded. Several officers were hurt in making the final charge in capturing the rioters. One of the rioters took refuge in his house and fired at the officers. They returned the fire, and rallied, and captured their man. Finally quiet was restored."

Hastings' Funeral.

MONMOUTH BEACH, N. J., Sept. 13.—The funeral services for the late Hugh J. Hastings will be held at St Leas church, Twenty-eighth street, New York, at 9 a. m. Saturday, September 15. The following will act as pall bearers, President Arthur, Secretary Folger, Roscoe Conkling, W. H. Vanderbilt, H. J. Jewett, Jay Gould, Samuel Sloan, General Eckert, Jenkins Van Schayck, William G. Weed, of Albany; Isaac England, J. Nelson Tappan and John Hoey. Telegrams of condolence have been received by the family from all parts of the country.

An Escaped Prisoner Killed.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 12.—John W. Loyd and Thomas Seaton while in pursuit of an escaped negro prisoner named Ben Harris fired three shots at the fugitive, two of which took effect, one in the back near the kidneys and the other in the base of the brain. Harris fell dead instantly.

The President in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—President Arthur remained in his rooms at the Fifth Avenue hotel during the greater part of to-day. He received only a few friends. Late this afternoon he drove through Central Park and this evening in company with Secretary Chandler dined at the residence of Charles E. Miller.

Horrible Affair in Columbia County

CATAWISSA, Sept. 15.—Yesterday afternoon, as a party of farmers were passing the farm house of William Runyon, near Jerseytown, Columbia country, they noticed that the shutters were drawn and that the house looked as if it was deserted. The building is situated in an isolated spot, about a mile from the village. They did not stop to investigate, but upon reaching town the matter was discussed and a party set out to look into the matter. They found the doors locked and the windows all barred. After knocking several times and receiving no answer they bursted in the door.

The first room they entered was the kitchen. It was empty, but the table was spread, as if for a meal, but covered over. They went up stairs to the room which they knew was occupied by the farmer and his wife as a bed room. They found the door locked. Breaking it open they saw a horrible sight. Upon the bed lay the bodies of Farmer Runyon and his young wife, with their throats cut from ear to ear. The farmers were too horrified to touch the bodies, and summoning a physician as quickly as they could, stood gazing at the bodies until he came. The faces of the dead were turned to ward each other and between the two lay a knife with a large blade, which was stained with their life blood. When the physicians arrived it was found that they had been dead over a week. An examination was had, but no clue could be found as to the cause of the deed. The doors had all been securely locked and deadlatched, while all the windows were bolted from the inside, save one in the upper story, which was rather loosely fastened.

Runyon was a young man, twenty-five years of age and highly respected throughout the farming region. His wife was about twenty years of age. Both were connected with the most intelligent people in Columbia county. They were married last February and have lived very happily to all appearances. Many suppose that the young man first killed his wife and then took his own life. The absence of any signs of a struggle seems to confirm the supposition, but the major part of the people seem to think that they were victims of foul play, because of the devotion shown to each other.

The affair has thrown the entire farming region into excitement. Crowds flocked to the scene and could not be kept out of the building by the officers. If the pair were murdered, the perpetrators were very successful in hiding their tracks, as not the slightest clue has been found to throw suspicion on any party.

Foreign Flashes.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The Standard's Paris special states that at the Chinese legation and at the French Foreign office it is asserted that the negotiations relative to the Tonquin question are being conducted on both sides with a sincere desire of arriving at an amicable solution of the difficulties. The English and American diplomatic representatives at Paris fully confirm the above statement.

Private advices from Canton state business has been resumed as before the recent outbreak. There are but few foreign merchants in trade there, the tea traffic having drifted to other localities. The inhabitants of Canton have the reputation of being especially turbulent at all times.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—The Debats editorially expresses the opinion that the basis of negotiations between Chalemel Lacour and Marquis Tseng are less favorable to France than the treaty made by Bourec at Pekin. The Debats also says that the Chinese should be given to understand that the desire of France for peace has certain limits.

The Figaro states that Lord Lyons, the British ambassador to Paris, had a long interview with Chalemel Lacour yesterday at which he urged upon the French minister of foreign affairs the danger to European commercial interest should war result from the Tonquin imbroglio.

Another New Comet.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Professor Swift, director of Warner observatory, discovered a comet last evening in the constellation Draco. It is a significant fact that the only two comets discovered this year are in the same constellation and so near each other. Professor Swift receives the Warner prize of $250. The wonderfully brilliant northern lights prevented an extended observation of the comet, the motion of which is southerly.

Strikers Get their Demands.

OSAGE CITY, Kansas Sept. 12.—The coal miners' strike which began in this (Osage) county, the first of the month has terminated by all the companies affected paying the increase of 11½ cents demanded for digging, except in the Osage carbon company which holds out. This mine is practically owned by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad company and that road is now receiving its coal from Missouri and Colorado.

State Legislation.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 14.—In the senate some discussion took place as to the correctness of the record of the proceedings of yesterday, after which the body adjourned until Tuesday next at 11 a. m.

In the house Mr. Fry, of Luzerne, offered a congressional bill.

A motion was made to adjourn until Tuesday at 11 a. m., which was not agreed to. after which an adjournment took place until Monday evening at 9 o'clock.

War Clouds.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—There are now three grave warlike situations in Europe. The only one of the great powers at present absolutely unentangled and therefore in a position to cast her influence for peace is England. The Chinese difficulty is in its most omnious shape. The turbulence of the Croatians has reached the revolutionary point. Germany has demanded of Russia an explanation of the activity of its agents in Bulgaria and Russia has declined to answer. Throughout the continent there prevails a feeling of feverish insecurity and the actions of the continental rulers are closely watched with feelings of profound distrust. France is divided as to the advisability of pursuing the Tonquin invasion, while China appears to be solid for war. The battle of Phokhoi was forced by the French, was unnecessary and was not only imprudent from a military stand-point, but extremely impolitic in a political sense.

The Chinese have upward of thirty-three thousand men massed on the Tonquin frontier, with very efficient supply arrangements in the rear and with a well-organized movement of troops between the frontier and Shanghai. The war fever is high throughout China and is constantly fed by the opponents of the present or Mautchon dynasty, which, with its following, is at present the only peace party in China and is greatly in the minority in the empire. The chief of the Black Flags is an able and educated soldier. He is, of course, a banished and outlawed rebel against the dynasty but his rebellion represented in a feeble way, what, if it had not been suppressed, would easily have become the national sentiment. His bold and stuborn stand against the invasion of the French has been hailed by the Chinese people as the conduct of a patriot.

Lutheran Synod in Session.

CARLISLE, Sept. 13.—The annual session of the West Pennsylvania Lutheran Synod convened here last evening in the English Lutheran Church, and the meetings were continued throughout to-day. This being the 400th year since Martin Luther's birth, Rev. A. Stewart Hartman, of Chambersburg, president of the Synod, opened the session with an interesting historical memorial of the great reformer, entitled "Luther, His Birth and Early Training." This evening Rev. H. L. Baugher, D. D., of Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, continued the subject in an eloquent address, taking as his theme "Luther at Wittemberg." Among those present are Rev. E. J. Wolf, D. D., of Gettysburg, Rev. L. A. Gotwold, D. D., of York, and Rev. F. Klinefelter, of Greencastle, who was elected president of the Synod for the ensuing year.

Peace Among the Ironworkers.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 13.—The relations between the ironworkers and their employers have never been so peaceful as they are at the present time. Labor difficulties are always recurring in some part of the country unexpectedly, but returns received at the general office of the Amalgamated Association in this city show that just at this time the iron business is remarkably free from all those dissensions that so frequently arise, and that in the many iron and steel establishments in the country, with their 100,000 employees, there are at present only two small strikes in progress, one at Birmingham, Ala., and the other at South Chicago. A meeting of the Voluntary Trade Tribunal has been called for next Tuesday to settle the price of mining for the Winter.

Hazing at Lehigh University.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 13.—Saturday evening several members of the sophomore class at the Lehigh university visited the room of a young man named Collins, of Altoona, to haze him. Collins took fright and jumped out of the window to the ground, a distance of eighteen feet, fracturing the bone of his foot and sustaining other slight injuries. He will not be able to resume his studies for some time, though his condition is not critical. Others members of the sophomore class subjected another freshman to a mock examination and one of them, Hawley, of Chicago, has been expelled, and the expulsion of other hazers will follow if their names can be learned.

Insurance Men in Council.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Fifty members of the Mutual Insurance association from various states met in annual convention in this city to-day. The day was consumed in hearing reports and discussing remedies for the evils in the present business system of the association.

Democratic Harmony.

TRENTON, N. J.—The convention held by the Democrats here to-day was very noisy and unsatisfactory. Leon Abbett was nominated for Governor on second ballot.

The second ballot was begun amid great confusion. It was impossible to tell votes as they were cast. The tide began to turn in favor of Abbett, however, and soon the chairman declared that he was elected. Then the wildest confusion ensued. The Al bright men jumped on the seats cursed the nomination and declared that they would bolt. A motion to make the nomination unanimous was howled down and without ad journment the delegates dispersed The final vote according the secretary showed 333 votes for Abbett, or 14 more than was necessary for a choice. Great dissatisfaction is expressed among the delegates to-night, and there are those who talk of a bolt.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

—Oh, no, Artiste Augustine, he's not sarcastic at all! He's too goody-goody for that, you know. And when the worthy employes of a hotel ornament a table in attractive style it is not his custom to allude to them in a general way as the Artiste Augustine. Those bicycle tourists traveled a mile in sixteen seconds, not sixteen minutes, you slow coach, and a fellow that can't beat the Artiste Augustine's three minutes is not worth noticing. But, you sweet, Artiste Augustine, there was an attempted robbery and almost a murder in connection with it in our borough last week; on Tuesday there was a wedding; a ghost of singular presence made its appearance on Howard street, but you allude to none of these things. Why don't you keep your readers informed in regard to affairs that are at least as important as tennis tournaments in which the Artiste Augustine figures? But they are compelled to depend on the Daily News for such information. Really, we're not at all sarcastic; but we look forward longingly for leap year—1884—with the hope that some "dudine" will consent to carry away the Artiste Augustine. Ere the Artiste Augustine wields his pencil many weeks, we fear he'll remark:

The mistakes of my life have been many;
My errors in journalism a score;
And before the Democrat is issued again
I'll exit to return no more.

—Mrs. Hess, the aged mother of Mrs. H. Y. Stitzer, continues in a rather alarming condition. Her health has always been good until recently and her present indisposition seems to be a sudden giving away of physical power. The other day Mrs. Corman of Brush Valley, who is 92 years of age, visited Mrs. Hess. Mrs. Stitzer, mother of Mr. H. Y. Stitzer, who is 75 years of age, was also present, which made a trio of aged ladies, the sum of whose years it would be difficult to exeeed among any three persons gathered under a single roof in the county. Their united ages is 257 years. The oldest of the trio is so sprightly that she walked from Harper Bros. store on Spring street to Mr. Stitzer's residence. There is only one lady in the county older than Mrs. Corman, and that is a resident of Boalsburg, who is 94 years old and is too feeble to walk. We hope that all the ladies mentioned in this trio will live and prosper many more years.

Won and Wedded.

On Thursday morning at the early and romantic hour of 4 o'clock Dr. Augustus Hibler, one of the most prominent physicians in this place, was married to Miss Lizzie Osmer, the lovely daughter of Mr. Edward Osmer, who resides on Mrs. Reuben Valentine's farm, a short distance from town.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. E. Furst, pastor of the Lutheran church, in that reverend gentleman's most graceful manner. After a delicious breakfast, the happy couple came to town and entered the early train for Philadelphia and New York.

We wish the gallant Doctor and his bride all the happiness that can be accorded earthly mortals.

Waffles and Chickens.

ED. REPUBLICAN: The decadence in church zeal is in great measure owing to the fact that the chicken has become an article of export.

Gone is our faith, in genuflexion,
Our moral state is awful,
Our only hope is well-stewed chicken
Roasting on a waffle.

In ancient times this preacher food
Brought with it holy unction;
In Peter wrought repentant mood,
And ended in redemption.

Then let us all, in sweet accord,
Serve God through greasy waffle;
'Twill nourish health, spread Gospel word,
In many ways be helpful.

—The railroad operations hereabouts are, to say the least, mysterious. On Friday the Pennsylvania railroad company sent a party of engineers over the route between Bellefonte and Lemont. Some people say that the big corporation is becoming alarmed at the active railroad interest that is developing and intends to get ahead of the other proposed lines. Be that as it may, while railroad talk is heard in all directions, very little actual work is done.

—The funeral of Mrs. Creighton, wife of Rev. A. M. Creighton, of Philipsburg, at Half Moon on Thursday afternoon, was a grand demonstration of popular sympathy and esteem. We learn that Mrs. Creighton was the daughter of Mr. Jacob Gray, of Half Moon. She was one of five sisters, four of whom married ministers. As a woman and a Christian she was held in high esteem.

—The brilliant sage and other blossoms of autumn render the flower gardens more than ordinarily bright and beautiful. They are pleasant sights to feast the eye upon.

—Mr. H. K. Hicks will soon appear on a bicycle. Clear the track.

THE ONLY FOREPAUGH.

He is coming to Bellefonte with the Greatest Show on Earth—A Brilliant Pageant and Costly Array of Talent.

We are pleased to announce the prospective arrival here of the great Forepaugh Show, which is coming to Bellefonte, Thursday, October 11. This show, always one of the best on the road, has been greatly enlarged and enhanced in attraction by the addition of a number of novelties and startling specialties that are presented by no other management. Mr. Forepaugh has been before the public nineteen years continuously, and during that time has earned a reputation for enterprise and reliability that is as enviable as it is rare. One of the most praiseworthy features of Mr. Forepaugh's show has always been the absolute order and decorum, and total absence of anything whatever that could offend the most sensitive taste. In all cities where they exhibit, the clergy will be found among the most zealous of their patrons, laughing at the humorisms of the comedians and heartily applauding the specialties, particularly the trained animals in their almost human performances.

The zoological department is by far the most extensive and varied that ever was controlled by any manager. Mr. Forepaugh has spared no expense in securing the most valuable and rare animals to be procured, and, as a result, he is enabled to carry from city to city a host of beasts of the field and jungle, birds of prey, songsters and those of gorgeous plumage, that defies competition and rivals in interest and extent the famous zoological gardens of the Old World. He exhibits a number of trained animals in tricks and evolutions that seem incredible in print, introducing mimicking monkeys, dancing bears, trained horses, educated mules, performing ponies, trained tigers, twenty-five acting elephants, learned seal, disciplined zebras, and a "happy family," acrobatic apes, acts, dogs, badgers, beavers, birds, porcupines and other animals.

The specialty artists are all from the foremost ranks of the profession in this country and Europe, none but stars being engaged.

A great Roman Hippodrome with a half-mile track for the chariot races and trials of speed between imported thoroughbreds and native horses, introducing for the first season here a most accomplished troupe of male and female Hippodrome riders, is a just added attraction for this season. During the forenoon of the day of exhibition here there will be a grand spectacular street parade, from the magnitude and splendor of which some slight idea may be gained of what is be seen under the mammoth canvas.

This is the only tented show which has ever existed nineteen years under one name and management. While other managers are failing every year, notwithstanding their flaming advertisements and pretensions of exhibitions that never were or will be seen, Mr. Forepaugh steadily held his own, increasing year by year the variety and number of his attractions, and invariably living up to the promises extended in his advertisements, until to-day sees him controlling the largest and most successful combination of circus and menagerie in the world, and giving, for the same price of admission charged by minor shows, an entertainment that surpasses anything ever before known to the world of sawdust and canvas.

—The promenade concert and hop given by Logan Hose company Friday night was a complete success and a very pleasant affair. About forty couples participated in the dance, which was kept up until a late hour. The music, by the Adelphic orchestra, was excellent.

—Chickens are now brought to market in quite large numbers.

Philipsburg Paragraphs.

The best band in Philipsburg is said to be composed entirely of Englishmen. They rendered very fine music on the occasion of the recent reunion of the Veteran Association. The members are employes of a gentlemen named Parker, who takes so much interest in the band that when the men are engaged in connection with it he pays them the regular wages earned by them when at their usual duties.

The Altoona Tribune has this to say in regard to the races in Philipsburg on Wednesday: The fall meeting of the Philipsburg trotting association commenced on Wednesday. The attendance was large and the number of exhibits were many. The first race was for three minute class for a purse of $250—in which there were nine starters, three only being eligible to trot in that class. The track was not fast, as the rain had caused it to be slippery and hence did not afford good footing for the fleet ones. Eight heats were necessary to decide the race, six of which were trotted on Wednesday, when the contest was postponed on account of darkness until Thursday morning when R. F. Myers' Alien Almont won the deciding heats and the race. Time, 2:39, 2:36, 2:33, 2:35, 2:33, 2:34, 2:36, 2:40, 2:43. The same gentleman's colt, Time Medium, won the colt race on Wednesday for a purse of $100—half mile heats. Time, 1:35, 1:38.

One More Railroad.

Articles of Association were filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth on Tuesday, the 11th inst., for incorporation of the Bellefonte, Nittany and Lemont Railroad Company with the following officers: Joseph N. DuBarry, Geo. B. Roberts, Strickland Kneass, Edmund Smith, and John D. Taylor, Directors.

The company propose to build a railroad from Bellefonte to Lemont, in Centre county, with a branch down Nittany Valley to Hublersburg, for the purpose of developing the valuable iron ores in that region. Engineers will be placed on the proposed line at once, and the road when completed, it is said will be operated with the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad. —L. H. Express.

—On and after Sept. 20th every dentist in Pennsylvania must have his diploma recorded in the office of the Recorder of the county in which he intends to practice. Tooth-carpentering without complying with this provision of the law is subjected to severe penalty.—Blair County Herald.

We think the above is a mistake. One of the dentists of this place referred us to the law on the subject recently and if we read the law aright it includes only those dentists who have been admitted to practice the profession since a certain date—nine or ten years ago. Dentists will do well, however, to look up the requirements of the law and if any of them will furnish us a clear statement of it we'll put it in print.

—Nothing looks more charmingly ridiculous than a beautiful young lady with a number one foot encased in a number 6 rubber shoe, trying to cross a muddy street without leaving the rubber appendages stick in the mud about six inches and having to make a flying leap for the opposite pavement. We witnessed this trying situation about one o'clock this morning, and if you could have seen the peculiar expression on her countenance, you would have died right there.—Williamsport Sun and Banner.

The most "charmingly ridiculous" part of such an adventure is the time it occurred. The moon must have been very bright to enable you to see all this at one o'clock in the morning—an hour when honest people should be in bed.

A Colored Band.

An effort is being made to organize a colored band in Bellefonte which now cannot boast of a single organization of that kind. They do not aim very high, the present object being to collect only $100 for the purpose of purchasing the instruments formerly owned by the Zion band. They will probably learn to "toot" on these old instruments and then invest in better ones. It is a shame that Bellefonte has no band and the present effort should meet with encouragement.

—It is said that the best way of boiling meat to make it tender is this: Put your joint in brisk boiling water; after a few minutes add a little cold water. The boiling water will fix the albumen, which will prevent the water from soaking into the meat keep all the juice in and prevent the muscular fibre from contracting. The addition of cold water will secure the cooking of the inside of the meat as well as the surface. Try it.

—On Thursday evening the receipts from the Reformed church chicken and waffle supper reached the surprisingly large sum of $80. On Friday evening they were probably equally large. The waffles were excellent and called for faster than they could be baked.

51 AND 53 BUSH'S ARCADE BELLEFONTE, PA.

—Abe Jackson, the dusky porter at Harris' hardware store, is "smiling all over his face," to-day. On Saturday a wee little stranger appeared at his home. We really forget whether the new arrival is a boy or a girl, but from the fact that he has been talking mysteriously about the "$10,000 beauty" we incline to think that the grammatical description feminine gender and present tense will apply.

—At the glass works greater activity is apparent than ever before. There are now six blowers employed on what is known as double-strength glass and four on the single strength. Both of these find ready sale and are disposed of as rapidly as they are manufactured. We believe that only two blowers were formerly engaged on the double strength glass which shows a very encouraging condition of affairs.

Business Notices and Other Items.

We have just received our new Fall and Winter Woolens. Call and leave your order. MONTGOMERY & Co., Tailors.

—Artiste Augustine was entirely too previous in announcing "Al" Garman's arrival home. He has not yet returned.

—Heed good advice by going to Sechler's store for groceries.

—How soon will the temporary bridge be completed across Spring creek? We are exceedingly anxious to traverse it.

—Peck's bad boy gives utterance to most of his smart sayings in a grocery store, the proprietor of which seems to devote much time to conversation with him. We do not know whether there is anything about a grocery store that is peculiarly favorable to wit and humor, or not, but advise our readers to patronize Harry Teats & Co. when they want to buy really superior articles in that line.

—The fence in front of Mr. James Milliken's Linn street property has been beautified with an artistic application of fresh paint.

—Fresh, pure groceries at Harry Teats & Co.'s store.

—Messrs Thomas Reynolds and E. C. Humes are congratulating themselves over the big crops which awarded their agricultural operations in the current year.

—The centre of population of the United States is located eight miles west by south from the heart of the city of Cincinnati, which makes it in Kentucky one mile from the south bank of the Ohio river, and one and a-half miles southeast of the village of Taylorsville. Persons would naturally think, however, that it is in the vicinity of Sechler's grocery store. So great is the desire to purchase the fine groceries found at this store that crowds congregate there as at a circus on a fine day. Although the centre of population is not at Sechler's store the centre of attraction for fine groceries certainly is. Go there and try for yourself.

—The school building erected by Mr. H. Sechler on the corner of Spring and Lamb streets is a neat little structure. A very wide boardwalk has been laid in front of it.

—She was a pretty girl and walked along in an easy, unconcerned way, and as she entered the grocery store of Harry Teats & Co. we mentally ejaculated: "There's a girl who'll make some man happy, because, among other commendable things, she knows enough to buy groceries at the right store." Try Harry Teats & Co.'s grocery.

—The committee appointed by the recent railroad meeting at Centre Hall to confer with the Pennsylvania railroad officials in regard to the building of the Lewisburg, Centre and Spruce Creek R. R. went to Philadelphia on Monday to accomplish the purposes of their appointment.

—Dr. J. A. McKibbon, late of Allegheny City, Pa., offers his professional services to the citizens of Julian and vicinity. Places of practice: Outdoor Department of Bellevue Hospital, and Demilt Dispensary, New York, and Allegheny City for nearly three years. 15 33 1t

—Superior groceries, accommodating clerks and general excellence in every department at Harry Teats & Co.'s grocery store.

—The festival held by the Citizens' Cornet band of Milesburg on Friday and Saturday evenings, September 7 and 8, netted that organization about $80. The weather, it will be remembered, was exceedingly disagreeable or the receipts would have been much larger.

—Everybody says that Sechler's store is the place to buy groceries, and what every body says must be true.

—The Y. M. C. A. State Convention will assemble in York on the 20th inst. Delegates from the Bellefonte Association are Wilmer Crow, Gen. Jas. A. Beaver, J. W. Gephart and Dr. J. W. Rhone. Morris Swartz will represent the Boys' Branch.

—It is said that the reason ministers pray for widows and orphans but not for widowers is because widows especially need help and sympathy, while widowers have reason to be thankful. This, however, is somewhat hard on the widows—perhaps more severe than they deserve. So far as we are aware the widows and widowers are excellent people and should change their condition by getting married. But whether they are married or not they will find it to be the part of discretion and policy to buy groceries of Sechler in the Bush House block, Bellefonte, Pa., where they will find everything suited to their tastes.

Kitzig's Foolish Feat.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—An innovation was made here to-day in the walking match line in an attempt of William Kitzig, a laborer, 32 years old, to mount a flight of forty-five steps three hundred times in ten hours for a wager. Kitzig began his task at 7.45 this morning, and made the trip one hundred times in the first hour and a half, and at 12.30 had climbed the stairway one hundred and seventy-five times, when he stopped for dinner, showing signs of fatigue. After completing the meal and taking a short rest he resumed the task, showing considerable evidence of weariness. At 3 o'clock it was evident that he could not go without stimulants. He then began drinking Rhine wine, which kept him up during the afternoon. As its effects permeated his system he revived. His legs began to swing automatically and he completed the three hundredth ascent and won the wager with nineteen minutes to spare. A large crowd congregated toward the close and the police were compelled to clear the street. It is estimated that Kitzig traveled over eight miles of steps in performing the task.

A Collision near Long Island City.

LONG ISLAND CITY, Sept. 11.—The Flushing train consisting of four passenger cars was ran into this evening at Montauk junction by a Manhattan Beach train consisting of seven ordinary cars and a parlor car. All were filled and many were standing on the platforms. None of the cars of the former train were injured, the damage being confined to the engine and tender. Ernest Kretzener, engineer, was slightly injured. The Manhattan Beach train was running thirty-five miles an hour. The parlor car was telescoped by the car behind it. Many of the passengers being warned by steam escaping from the air brakes escaped through front doors and windows. The chairs in the back part of the car were smashed and piled one on top of the other. Wedged in between the platform of the second car and the floor of the parlor car were, on one side, Thomas Birmingham, of 108 East Houston street, and on the other, Robert Smith, of East Eightieth street. It was found necessary to cut away the paneling and woodwork with axes to get the men out. Their legs were in a condition necessitating their immidiate amputation. The injured men died in a few minutes afterward.

The Catholic Council.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 11.—The council of Catholic prelates, which will assemble here to-morrow for the purpose of perfecting arrangements for their visit to Rome, and discussing and deciding on matters to be presented to the Pope, will be of a strictly private character. None of the proceedings will be made public. The conference will take place at the arch-episcopal residence adjoining the cathedral. It is expected that Archbishop Corrigan, of New York, coadjutant to Cardinal McCloskey; Archbishop Feehan, of Chicago; Archbishop Williams, of Boston; Archbishop Heise, of Milwaukee; Bishop Ryan, of St. Louis; Bishop O'Hara, of Scranton; Bishop Chatard, of Vincennes, and the Very Rev. Dr. Walsh, administrator of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia, will be present. Archbishop Gibbon, of Baltimore, and primate of the church in the United States, will preside.

Lord Coleridge at the Wrong Place

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—Lord Coleridge has been very busy since his arrival in Boston seeing the places of historic interest. His first request after getting settled at his hotel was to see Fanueil Hall and wharf where the tea was thrown overboard. It has just leaked out that the staff officer whom Gov. Butler detailed to show his Lordship about the city in his ignorance took Lord Coleridge to T wharf and expatiated there on the famous tea party. Every Boston schoolboy knows that the historic event took place on an entirely different wharf, and that T wharf took its name from its shape, and now there is considerable amusement over the staff officer's blunder. Lord Coleridge has since been shown the place where he wished to see.

Blaine's Opinion of Butler.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—The Herald tomorrow will say: "There comes from Maine a well authenticated story that certain local democratic leaders recently called upon Mr. Blaine and were confidentially informed by him that in his opinion if Governor Butler could secure reelection in Massachusetts this year he would inevitably become the democratic nominee for the presidency and would be elected. He himself was out of politics and would under no circumstances be in the field for the presidency next year."

Burglary.

MERIDEN, Conn., Sept. 9.—Burglars entered H. M. Mather's jewelry store this morning, cut open the safe and stole one hundred watches and rings, worth $4,000. The safe of H. W. Brooks & Co., stationers, in the same building, was also robbed of $300.

The Frost King.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 10.—Frost is reported very generally throughout Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky the past two mornings. The opinion varies as to its effect on corn. A report from Kentucky says all the tobacco on low ground and creek bottoms is ruined. Vegetables everywhere are injured. The weather today is warmer.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Sept. 10.—The frost on Saturday night nipped the vines in this vicinity, but so far as learned it has not seriously injured the fruit. Corn is not much injured unless it is a little in the valleys, and that is not to any extent. The average, it is believed, is by no means as serious as was expected, and the crops as a whole have received little damage. There was no frost last night.

MUSCATINE, Iowa, Sept. 10.—There were slight frosts here on Saturday and Sunday nights. The damage was generally slight, but on some low ground corn was considerably injured.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—A special from Des Moines, Iowa, says: There was only a slight frost Sunday morning in this section. The corn is not materially damaged. The tomatoes, sweet potatoes and pumpkin vines did not fare as well. No frost on Sunday night.

A dispatch from Iowa City, Iowa, reports that a heavy frost fell there on Sunday morning, but did little damage to the corn in that section.

A Huron, Dakota, special says: The frost was light and did but little damage in this section. Two-thirds of the corn crop has matured, while the greater portion of the remainder is not injured.

To Pay $1,000 for not Marrying Her.

READING, Sept. 11.—The Keiser-Miller breach of promise case came to a sudden termination in court today. Rev. Mr Keiser was formerly pastor of a flourishing Reformed congregation in Pottsville. Miss Elizabeth Miller seven years ago resided in the family of Rev. D. K. Humbert, at Bower Station, this county. She alleges that Keiser promised to marry her when he was a theological student. When he returned from college he married a highly respectable young woman and settled down in Pottsville as a pastor. Mr. Keiser was deposed after an investigation and the suit brought by Miss Miller was for damages. She had with her her little boy and a great number of love letters from Keiser. There was a compromise, Miss Miller agreeing to accept $1,000.

Montgomery County's Centennial.

NORRISTOWN, Sept. 10.—Ninety-nine years ago to-day Montgomery County was organized. The joint committee from the Historical Society and the present county officers, and one representative from each election district in the county, met in the Historical Society's room in he court house to-day to arrange plans for the celebration of the county's centennial anniversary. A permanent organization was effected by electing Judge B. Markley Boyer president, a dozen prominent citizens vice presidents, F. G. Hobson, Esq., secretary, and Lewis Styer treasurer. Various committees requisite to effect the aims of the organization were appointed. The time for holding the centennial was fixed for one year from to-day.

Starving Miners.

NEW York, Sept. 10.—The Presbyterian Home Missionary society has received the following intelligence from Alaska: A party of miners returning from a prospecting tour on the Upper Yukon river ran out of provisions. Becoming too weak to travel the three strongest were sent forward to the coast. These reached the Presbyterian mission station at Haines, Alaska, on August 7th, with nothing but their under clothes and in a starving condition, having been without food for three or four days. Rev. Eugene I. Willard at once supplied them with food clothing and organizing a relief party of Indians went to the rescue of those left behind. These were at length found and after a forced march of two days and nights were brought safely to the station.

Threatened Battle with Apaches.

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 10.—A special despatch to the El Paso Daily Times from their correspondent in Casas Grandes, says: Apaches have sold in that town a chased gold ring marked "R. R. F. to F. N. McC," and two gold bracelets marked McComas. Geronimo, the chief, who captured Charlie McComas was in Casas Grandes last Wednesday and said he had not seen Charlie since the fight with Crook. The Apaches are trading under the white flag, and great consternation prevails. The Mexican troops are trying to surround the Indians. A fearful combat is imminent.

King Alfonso.

VIENNA, Sept. 9—King Alfonso arrived here this evening. He was met at the depot by the emperor, the crown prince Randolph, and archdukes Albert, William and Eugene, who greeted him cordially. King Alfonso was then escorted to the imperial palace. He will remain in Vienna until the 16th inst.

Bogardus Beaten.

READING, Pa., Sept. 11.—In the pigeon shooting match here to-day between Isaac Eckert and Oliver Humershetz, of the Forest club, of this city, and Captain A. H. Bogardus and his son Eure, the two former killed forty-five out of fifty and the Messrs. Bogardus but forty-three.

President Villard's Party

PORTLAND, Oregon, Sept. 11.—President Villard's party reached Portland during the night. All are enthusiastic over their trip, which has been full of interesting incidents and free from serious mishaps. Portland will give them a grand reception. The city is elaborately decorated. A procession, speeches and banquets are a part of the programme. Several days will be spent by the party in Portland and vicinity. From the point of the last spike-driving to the present terminus there has been a repetition of the previous lavish decorations at all towns and cities.

A Pottery Destroyed.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 9.—The Jackson Square Pottery, in this city, belonging to Henry S. Taylor & Co., was destroyed by fire late last night, together with all the stock which had been made for the fall trade. The damages is estimated at $10,000, upon which there is $9,500 insurance. Several small frame houses on Mulliken street, owned and occupied by colored people, were also destroyed. The damage was about $2,000, upon which there was very little insurance.

Don't Procrastinate.

If you have signs of pulmonary trouble, act promptly. "A stitch in time saves nine." Compound Oxygen will certainly arrest the progress of consumption if used in the early stages of that disease. It has already done so in a large number of cases. In proof of this the most direct and positive evidence will be furnished by Drs. Starkey & Palen, 1109 Girard street, Philadelphia. If you would like to submit your case to them and get an opinion of your condition, write to them and state all your symptoms clearly. It will cost you nothing as they do not charge for consultations. Their reply and the documentary evidence which they will furnish as to what has been done by their new treatment, and also as to their professional standing, will put you in a position to judge for yourself whether to use their treatment or not.

"If you are a minister, and have 'overtaxed yourself with your pastoral duties, or a mother, worn out with 'care and work, or a man of business 'or labor weakened by the strain of 'your everyday duties, or a man of letters, toiling over your midnight work, 'Hop Bitters will surely strengthen 'you."

"If you are suffering from 'over-eating or drinking, any 'indiscretion or dissipation, or 'are young and growing too 'fast, as is often the case,"

"Or if you are in the workshop, on 'the farm, at the desk, anywhere, and 'feel that your system needs cleansing, 'toning or stimulating, without intoxicating, if you are old, blood thin and 'impure, pulse feeble, nerves unsteady, 'faculties waning, Hop Bitters is what 'you need to give you new life, health 'and vigor."

If you are costive or dyspeptic, or suffering from any other of the numerous diseases of the stomach or bowels, it is your own fault if you are ill.

If you are wasting away with any form of kidney disease, stop tempting death this moment, and turn for a cure to Hop Bitters.

If you are sick with that terrible sickness, nervousness, you will find a "Balm in Gilead" in Hop Bitters.

If you are a frequenter or a resident of a miasmatic district, barricade your system against the scourge of all countries—malaria, epidemic, bilious and intermittent fevers—by the use of Hop Bitters.

If you have rough, pimply or sallow skin, bad breath, Hop Bitters will give you fair skin, rich blood, the sweetest breath, and health. $500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help.

That poor, bed-ridden, invalid, wife, sister, mother, or daughter, can be made the picture of health by a few bottles of Hop Bitters, costing but a trifle. 15-9-1y

—Two young ladies who were visiting in Bellefonte last week were desirious of attending the minstrel entertainment, but returned late from a horseback ride and knew that if they stopped to make an evening toilet they would miss part of the performance. So they repaired to the Opera House in their riding habits. This is not the style in either Lancaster or Reading, but is quite appropriate in all places when force of circumstances require it.

Shaffer—McGinley.

Tuesday evening, September 11th, after twilight had come and disappeared and the light of the moon illuminated the outside world a pleasant scene was witnessed in the residence of Mr. Daniel McGinley on Lamb street. The happy event was announced to occur at 7 o'clock, and a few minutes after that hour L. A. Shaffer, Esq., and Miss Rebecca McGinley advanced into the principal apartment where, before about thirty guests, beneath a large floral horseshoe and aided by the holy offices of Rev. Geo. Penepacker, of the M. E. church, the twain were made one.

Other superb floral decorations aside from the horseshoe already mentioned ornamented the room. The thirty guests present included the relatives of the bride and groom and their nearest friends. The ceremony was brief and beautiful and was followed by the sincere congratulations of friends.

Then a bounteous repast was served including all that the abundant market and culinary skill could provide. Cake, ice cream, turkey, sandwiches, etc., served to please the appetite and add to the enjoyment of the pleasant company.

The presents were costly and appropriate, including a check for $100 and a valuable gold piece, articles of silverware, numerous gifts of ornament and virtu, not omitting those of more practical value.

The bride is one of the most highly esteemed and widely known young ladies in this community. She is the personification of worth and excellence and her acquaintances, young and old, will unite in wishing her a happy life. The groom is the son of ex-Sheriff Shaffer and is a promising young man. He is reading law with Adam Hoy, Esq., and will soon be admitted to practice. Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer have our wishes and hopes for their perfect happiness.

It was their intention to repair to the home which has been prepared for their reception next to the residence of Mr. Isaac Lose on Spring street, which intention we doubt not was carried into effect.

—A special meeting of borough council was held on Monday evening, September 10, for the purpose of considering an important measure. It was to adopt such action as will permit the gas company to issue stock to the full extent of their charter—$75,000—and with the money so raised to procure an extension of the charter to include steam heating, electric lighting and motive power privileges. The consent of the council is necessary because the borough is a large stockholder in the gas company. Stock has already been issued to the extent of about $40,000 which will leave about $35,000 to invest in the charter and plant. No action pro or con was taken, but the following resolution, offered by Mr. Brown and seconded by Mr. Shortlidge, was adopted: "Resolved, That it be the sense of this council that they are not now ready to take the responsibility of signing the paper presented to them to-night. They would say, however, that they offered their gas stock for sale and if a fair offer is made will dispose of the same." As this seems to be an important subject and it will doubtless be taken up and disposed of at a future meeting of council, we suggest that our citizens give it due thought and consideration and give the members of council such advice as they may deem pertinent. Meanwhile, here's an opportunity to buy 188 shares of gas stock.

Tribute of Respect.

At a meeting of the Spring Mills Veteran Club the following preamble and resolutions were passed:

WHEREAS, God in His allwise providence, has seen fit to remove by death from our midst Comrade Thomas Richardson, of company "G," 56 Regt., Penn'a. Vet. Vol.

Resolved, That while we mourn the loss of our comrade, we submit to the divine will of our Creator.

Resolved, That by his death we lose an active worker in the club, and our loss is His eternal gain.

Resolved, That the club extend their sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the family; also that the same be recorded on the minutes of the club, and published in the Millheim Journal, Centre Reporter and Bellefonte Republican.

A Black Ghost with White Feet.

On Thursday night, the 30th of August, about 11 o'clock, an apparition was seen on Howard street east of Allegheny which is now the subject of startling, whispered conversation among the staid and pious residents of that part of the town. Not a word did it speak, not a threatening motion did it make, but its awful presence is remembered and its reappearance dreaded.

The figure, whatever it was, is described as black, but the most marvelous thing about it was that its feet were the purest white—never before were such white feet seen. The persons who saw it are not certain whether it had a head or not, but their impression is that the spectre in question had no such desirable appendage. Twice it crossed from side to side of the street, and so startling did it appear that other persons were called to look at it and if possible to tell what sort of a creature it was—but none could tell. In size it was larger than an ordinary mortal, and although it stepped lightly in the deep dust on the street its feet were not colored at all, but still were so wonderfully white as to be positively terrifying. It is said also that it made a a peculiar noise as it walked along, the sound of which is indescribable. The persons who saw the ghost remember that it was on the night above named, for on the following day, August 31, they picked their hops that the September wind might not blow over them.

Well, this ghost did not long continue visible. Moving out the road toward Jacksonville it disappeared over a certain house on Howard street and has not been seen in that vicinity since, although it is said to have been observed on other thoroughfares of the borough, but of that we can give no authenticated record. The above, however, is no fancy sketch, but was gleaned last week from witnesses.

Death of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Ramsey.

RAMSEY.—Mrs. Elizabeth A., wife of C. C. Ramsey, born March 28th, 1851, died Monday, September 3, 1883, aged 32 years, 5 months and 7 days.

The subject of this notice was the only daughter of Mr. Peter Shultz of Houserville. She united with the Evangelical church quite a number of years ago, and remained a constant and devoted member until death. Her sickness was brief, ere one short week had passed, death claimed its victim.

As a friend, her memory will be prized as expressing the elements of sincerity. As a Christian, her life will ever be remembered as an embodiment of "Charity suffereth long and is kind."

A kind father and a bereaved husband feel most keenly the sorrow, while a little daughter, a few years old, an only child, is left to learn from other lips the story of her mother's life and work.

Her remains were interred in the cemetery at Houserville on Tuesday, 5th instant, 10 a. m. A large concourse of friends witnessed the last sad rites which were conducted by the venerable William Morris, who spoke in an appropriate manner suitable for the occasion, and, though the body sleeps in death, her soul, in grander life, is marching on.

The State College.

We have received a circular and bulletin of the Pennsylvania State College, located at Bellefonte, Centre county. To read over the pretentious pamphlet and see the array of high-sounding names of the faculty printed therein, and the proposed number of courses and schedules of studies, one might be led to believe that it is a flourishing institution.—Danville Intelligencer.

The above slur on the State College is only a sample of what may be read in the "cranky" newspapers of the State nearly every day in the week. It seems to afford those journals an immense amount of satisfaction to misrepresent this institution and malign its officers. The charges brought forward are, however, so ridiculously shallow and groundless that anything said in their refutation is but a waste of words. The college has lived many years without the praise of these dyspeptic papers, and we believe it will manage to worry through the coming winter and come out blooming in the spring, even if the Intelligencer man should sit up nights to invent "roorbacks." In regard to its present standing we will just state, as a matter of information, that the College is in a flourishing condition, and that the fall session of '83 opens with an increased attendance and with prospects of a very successful term.

Amusements.

Manager Sourbeck has arranged for the appearance here this fall of the following first class companies:

Fifth Avenue novelty company, September 25th.

Wilbur Opera Company, (the favorites) October 8th.

Canfield and Lemont's combination, October 29th.

Tony Denier's "Humpty Dumpty" and variety troupe, Nov. 14th.

Forepaugh's circus, Oct. 11.

The Car Works.

A few days ago we made public an offer of the Bellefonte car works for the ridiculously small small sum of $26,000. That offer was good on only the 6th, 7th and 8th insts., and as no cash offers of the requisite sum were tendered a new disposition will be made of the property and one which, for the sake of the borough, we regret. All the machinery is to be sold, a cash offer of $13,000 for it having been made and about accepted. In the words of the owner, the works will be "dismantled," and after that no special effort will be made to sell the property, as he can afford to wait until a fair offer is made for them.

Thus, the outlook that this valuable property will ever become of much benefit to Bellefonte is very gloomy. Enterprising (?) citizens with abundance of cash can reflect that they have missed the business opportunity of a lifetime.

—We are requested to repeat the announcement that the Patrons of Husbandry of this county will hold their tenth annual picnic on Nittany mountain, near Centre Hall, on Thursday, September 20, 1883. Hon. Mortimer Whitehead, Lecturer of the National Grange; Col. R. B. Thomas, Secretary of the Penn'a State Grange; Ex-Gov. A. G. Curtin and others will be present to address the audience. Excellent bands will be present to furnish music. Several manufacturing companies have requested permission to exhibit, and the same privilege is extended to others. The public generally are invited to attend and participate in the enjoyment of the day. All application for restaurant privileges must be made to J. D. Sourbeck, of Bellefonte. By order of County Grange. Geo. W. Campbell chairman, Linden Hall P. O.

Death of Edward Dowling.

Mention was made in the News on the 10th inst. of the death of Edward Dowling, of Renovo. We have since learned that he was run over by the cars while walking on the railroad track at that place on Saturday, September 8, and died in about four hours. He was 66 years of age and spent about fifty years of his life in Centre county. He was a soldier, serving in the war under Captain Snyder. Mr. Gallagher, master mason on the Spring creek bridge abutments, is a step son of the deceased, and Miss Mollie Dowling, one of the compositors of the News, is a granddaughter.

The remains of Mr. Dowling were brought from Renovo to this place on Tuesday morning, the 11th, the funeral services being held in the Catholic church.

The Minstrels.

The entertainment given at the Opera House last week by the New Orleans Minstrels attracted a small but appreciative audience. The programme presented was a good one, containing several amusing novelties, which called forth loud shouts of laughter. The military drill and combat clog tournament was the finest performance of the kind ever seen in the Opera House, and was heartily applauded. The clarionette solos of Mr. Frankum were excellent, and the gentleman was called before the lights for a second time. The performance ended with an amusing pantomime, which kept the audience in an uproar from beginning to end. A larger house will greet them on their next appearance.

—It is wonderful how much royalty exists in this Republic. It is more noticeable on the stage than elsewhere. Perhaps there are a half-dozen who delight to call themselves the King of Conjurors. There are even more who claim such titles as the Queen of Song, the Queen of the Rostrum, etc. It would be almost impossible to name each one of the many who are fond of derogating to themselves the exclusive title of the Prince of Orators. Because they fling to the breeze such royal titles many are attracted to see and hear them who would not otherwise give them the least attention. Whether we shall have any of the royal family in Bellefonte this year is yet to be determined.

Tomato Pie.

The tomatoes in perhaps a hundred gardens in Centre county have failed to ripen this fall before Jack Frost came to kill them. Although no ripe ones have been gathered and none of them have been canned or preserved, those who appreciate the merits of tomato pie have enjoyed a feast. When only half ripe they are delicious baked in a pie.

—Extensive improvements are in progress in the flouring mill of Gerberich, Hale & Co.

Thousands of voluntary testimonials testify to the efficacy of Smith's German Olio as a cure for rheumatism and kindred diseases.

—Our well-known citizen, Mr. J. V. Thomas, accompanied by Mrs. Thomas, returned home last week after an absence extending through several months. The summer tour in which he and his lady have indulged has been one of extraordinary pleasure and profit and Mr. T. says that he now feels greatly benefited. A large part of the time was spent among the Catskills which are indeed charming and picturesque. He made frequent visits to Long Branch and other resorts down at the level of the sea and witnessed the high tide which was such a surprise and source of annoyance on that part of the coast. Philadelphia, New York and Albany received occasional visits from him. In short, he seemed to spend the time in genuine enjoyment.

Miscellaneous.

PE-RU-NA

Is a new remedy, originally compounded and introduced to the medical profession, and then to the public at large, by S. B. Hartman, M. D. He has prescribed it to over 40,000 patients with the most gratifying results.

Its effect upon the system is entirely unlike that of any other remedy, and is the only medicine needed in almost every disease to which flesh is heir. (In Constipation, Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, MANALIN should be given with it.)

PERUNA is composed of purely vegetable ingredients, each one, according to medical authors, a great remedy in itself.

Dr. Hartman has succeeded in extracting and combining the active principles of these ingredients into one simple compound, which perfectly coincides with the VIS MEDICATRIX NATURÆ in every disease, and a cure necessarily follows. There is not an organ it will not reach nor a disease it will not cure.

Ask your druggist for Dr. Hartman's pamphlet on the "Ills of Life," Dr. S. B. Hartman & Co., Osborn, O., proprietors.

TIRED ALL OVER.

What Rested and Refreshed a Weary Man in Memphis.

"No, it never amounted to an acute pain, but continued to be a dull, weary ache in the small of my back," writes Mr. James Thomas, of No. 59 Madison street, Memphis, Tenn. "This was an old experience, and life became dull music. I was tired all over, with pain in the lower limbs, and a habit of lying awake of nights. Recently I tried one of BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTERS and was decidedly relieved within twenty-four hours. It may have been Providence that did the work, but I give the credit to Benson's porous plaster." Mr. Thomas' reverential idea does him credit, but Providence works by agents, and among them Benson's plaster ranks first as an external remedy. It acts quickly in relief and healing, and renders life better worth living. Price 25 cents. Look in the middle of the plaster for the word CAPCINE. Ask your physician about it.

Death of Spencer C. Ogden.

On Friday, September 7, the death of Spencer C. Ogden occurred in St. Paul, Minn. A very large number of people in Bellefonte will hear of this sad event with sincere regret, as they knew Spencer Ogden well and to know him was to admire him. His death was caused by pneumonia from which he suffered only two days and then was numbered with the departed.

Spencer C. Ogden was about 23 years of age. His father was a minister of the Presbyterian church and was a martyr to the Christian faith, laboring earnestly in the noble cause as a missionary on the coast of West Africa and dying in that far-away land, where also his faithful wife lived and labored and where Spencer was born.

Afterwards Mrs. Ogden and young Spencer came to America. Here Mrs. Ogden engaged in teaching, being connected for two or three years with the Bellefonte Academy and gaining the entire respect of the most cultivated portion of this community.

Spencer was a bright, promising student at the Academy and was thoroughly prepared for College, but chose instead a business life. He and his mother were devoted to one another and his ambition was to gain a competence for her. He learned the printing trade in the office of the REPUBLICAN and the proprietor of that paper never had an employe in whom he placed more absolute confidence nor whom he regarded as more promising.

Again when Spencer was about 19 years of age he and his mother went to West Africa, the latter as a missionary and the former to attend to the business interests of an American firm. While there Spencer was prostrated for six weeks with the African fever, but rallied and became apparently the personification of robust physical health. He returned to the United States, leaving his mother on that torrid shore and visited his friends in Bellefonte, arriving on the evening of February 18, '83.

Then he went to St. Paul, Minn., to enter a hardware store owned by relatives. His ambition to prepare a home for his mother was nearly gratified and he had sent for her and she is now on her way to this country expecting to make her home with her much loved son. What a shock it will be to her! Words cannot express the agony that will be hers and only the Comforter whom they both worship can assuage the poignant grief.

Harry Green, his nearest friend in Bellefonte, received the information of his death on Thursday evening. The remains of Spencer were laid to rest on Sunday, September 9. He was a thoroughly good young man and a Christian with naught but holy, pure ambitions. To live thus is grand, to die is glorious.

Trifles Light as Air.

The Veteran re-union excursionists returned at 9 o'clock on Thursday night.

Two Centre Hall citizens trudged to Bellefonte on Thursday morning to accompany the excursion and arrived just as the train was disappearing from sight.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Homan, of Aaronsburg, were thrown from a buggy near Lemont recently, Mrs. H. being considerably injured.

Mrs. J. D. Murray, of Centre Hall, has gone to Philadelphia to have an operation performed on one of her eyes, the sight of which has been much impaired.

The pavement surrounding Mrs. Brockerhooff's residence was completed on Thursday. It is the longest stretch of solid stone pavement laid in Bellefonte this season and is a grand improvement.

An article entitled "A Church Centennial Celebration," which is of special interest to Episcopalians, may be found on the 2d page of this issue.

—On Thursday a lively railroad meeting was held at Clintondale which was attended by all the property holders in that section and by Judge Orvis and J. L. Spangler, Esq., of this place. Much interest was manifested and a singular unanimity of sentiment in favor of the road was exhibited. Judge Orvis and Mr. Spangler addressed the meeting showing the benefit which would accrue to the community by the building of a railroad. The right of way has been secured over a wide extent of territory, and of about 60 property owners between this place and Clintondale 47 have signed the release giving right of way. Thus the railroad prospects are exceedingly encouraging.

—A comet has been discovered which is three or four times further than the sun from the earth and which will perhaps be a year in reaching its perihelion. It may rival in beauty the famous comet of 1882.

Advantages of Steam Heating.

Philipsburg is ahead of Bellefonte in the steam heating enterprise. The Man of the Journal has been making investigations during the past week and records his conclusions in the following dialogue:

"What are they digging those immense ditches for in our streets?" Our Man is quite frequently interrogated. Well, they are intended for another great improvement—the purpose of heating the town by steam. "Why, I hope they don't intend to heat the town by steam, do they?" "Nixy, my dear, ignorant sir!" (He didn't knock us out in two, or three rounds, either), Our Man answered, "They will lay pipes and run them into the houses, and heat them, thus doing away with the dirty and troublesome coal stove." "It will be very expensive, won't it?" "No, it will be considerably cheaper than the coal stove. For instance: You must purchase a new stove occasionally, buy coal, and then you must buy kindling wood to start the fire burning, and all these things together with the dirt and trouble. I think every man would be wise to heat his house or place of business by steam and he would shortly be convinced that it would be far cheaper in the end." Our Man knowing that he had convinced him that it would be cheaper, the gentleman slowly wended his way along the great stretch of deep ditches, and thought, and thought, but finally his senses became wise, and concluding that it would save expense and a vast amount of trouble, he murmured loud enough so that one of the men engaged at digging over-heard him say: "Well well; it beats all how progressive a town this is, anyhow. By jingo, I will have my house heated by steam if nobody else does!" Our Man says that everybody must admit that it will be cheaper in the end to have your house heated by steam. By the 15th of October the company expects to have all the pipe laid and everything in good working order.

Mere Mention About the Moon.

The September moon was full on Sunday last at 33 minutes past 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Washington mean time. The full moon of the 16th is very near Neptune on the 20th, being 10′ North. On the 21st she is in conjunction with Saturn, being 1° 14′ South. In some portions of the southern hemisphere Saturn is occulated at this time for the sixth time during the year. The beautiful phenomenon has not once been visible at Washington, nor at many points adjacent. On the 24th the waning moon pays her respects to Mars, on the 25th to Jupiter, and on the 30th to Uranus for the second time. Thus this ponderous sphere sails majestically through space, drawing near on her way to the more important members of the solar brotherhood. She takes on her most distinguished aspect during September, for she appears as the lovely Harvest Moon, rising for several successive nights with a comparatively small average difference in the time of her appearance above the horizon.

—The increased interest that has marked the affairs of State College the past year is wonderful. The president and faculty are as a unit in their efforts to accomplish whatever will contribute to its thoroughness and perfection. The persecution, as it may be termed, of the past year, has aroused this interest. It opened with fifty-three new students, besides a very large number of old ones, making the largest attendance that has ever been known, and others are arriving on every train. It would be difficult to find a more capable corps of instructors than compose its faculty, and now when hazing and general insubordination seems to run riot in so many of the colleges, it is refreshing to see the admirable yet gentle control which marks the discipline at the State College. President Atherton attracts the students to him by gaining their respect and attention, and parents cannot find a safer place in the land for their sons and daughters than State College as now constituted.

—Rev. Robert Hamill, D. D., of Oak Hall, resides in one of the most delightful homes in this county. The fine residence, which is superbly furnished, is surrounded by spacious grounds in which a wealth of shrubbery and trees of all varieties grow in profusion. Many of these trees were planted by Rev. Hamill's own hands and he has lived to see them grow into mature beauty. One of the most noticeable of the inside appointments of his house is the large library which is unusually complete and which the reverend gentleman makes excellent use of. We are glad to hear that as his years increase his health seems to improve, and he is now rejoicing in the possession of buoyant health and strength.

The Veterans' Reunion.

The attendance at the Veterans' reunion at Philipsburg on Thursday was not so large as it would have been had the weather been fair. The falling rain of the previous night and the lowering clouds kept at home perhaps one-half the people of this section who expected to go. The Bellefonte excursionists reached Philipsburg a few minutes before 10 o'clock and repaired to the beautiful grove about a mile from town. Several addresses were made by the prominent speakers present, James Bryson, Esq., delivering the address of welcome, and D. F. Fortney, Esq., who was elected President pro tem, replying on behalf of the Association. D. H. Hastings, Esq., also addressed the multitude. The dinner was excellent and sufficient for all. Representatives of the Huntingdon and Clearfield posts were present. The parade was quite imposing, the Association and the representatives of the several posts composing the long line.

A very large number of persons were attracted to the races which occurred in the afternoon and were interesting.

The return train started about 6.30 o'clock p. m., and the vast crowd separated after a day of thorough enjoyment.

The reunion will be held in Bellefonte next year.

Steam Heating.

We are informed that negotiations are about completed between the "Gas Company" and the "American District Steam Company" to introduce the Holly combination system for heating purposes. From the investigations that have been made of this enterprise by a number of our citizens it is believed that whilst the union of these companies will greatly benefit the former and thus enable the directors to reduce the price of gas, the value of the combined stock will be increased, and at the same time a more satisfactory means of heating be adopted. Dr. Bishop (not Fisher) of Lockport, N. Y., has been spending two weeks past in town in conversation with the directors of the "Gas Company," and from figures presented by him the directors believe that if the project is carried out they will be able to sell gas without any profit, the immense profit from the heating investment being sufficient. In some places less favorable in all respects than Bellefonte the profit has been as high as 32 per cent. The danger from fire and cost of insurance is also reduced considerably.

As the movement is so nearly consummated which will provide our citizens with cheaper light and heat we offer our congratulations and hope it may be completely successful.

An Arrival from the West.

Mr. Lawrence B. Curtin, son of Mrs. Rebecca Curtin, who has spent more than two years among the Mormons and cowboys, surprised his friends very agreeably by putting in an appearance at the old homestead near Curtin's works Friday forenoon. He comes direct from the herding country known as Brown's Park, the same being that section of country upon which Wyoming, Colorado and Utah corner. He has been in the employ of Hoy Bros. almost ever since he went west, and speaks in the highest terms of his employers, their business and wild western life in general. On his way east he assisted Mr. Valentine Hoy in bringing nineteen car loads of fat cattle to the Chicago market. The train arrived in Chicago at night and the stock was at once unloaded and by nine o'clock next morning was sold for upwards of $15,000. He reports that Mr. James S. Hoy, who has been in Europe, returned lately with thirteen thoroughbred horses from France. Mr. Curtin thinks of returning to this firm again after a season of rest and social enjoyment among his friends.

—Our recent article on a trio of old ladies has elicited some additional information in regard to old people in general and two old ladies in particular. We are informed that the old lady referred to in Boalsburg, whose name, we believe, is Mrs. Raimer, is not older than Mrs. Corman. She is in only her 90th year and as Mrs. Corman, of Brush Valley, is 92, the latter has a decided advantage in point of years with no danger of being overtaken. There are many old men and old ladies in our county whose histories have about them much that is interesting and we should like to be informed in regard to them that the young folks who also desire to live long in the land may learn lessons which shall be to them of inestimable value.

—Clearfield and Philipsburg have recently been badly sold by a sharper pretending to represent Sells' Brothers Circus.

Let's hear from some agricultural Republican.

—A lively interest is felt among the base ball men of this vicinity on the final result of the great race for the championship by the league and association clubs. Bellefonte being the home of Monte Ward it is quite natural that his friends and admirers here should desire to see the New Yorks occupy a position higher up in the list; but as that club is now out of the race there seems to be a general wish that Boston should win the colors. The Athletics have always been favorites in Bellefonte, and their fine prospects of wresting the pennant from Cincinnati is looked upon with general satisfaction. Chief Burgess Fleming, who is a close observer, says they'll surely "knock the persimmons." It is hard to tell just where the Eurekas will stand at the close, but it is reasonably safe to predict that if they win a couple of more games they will be able to crowd in ahead of the Philadelphias.

—The Beaver Band, of the Presbyterian church, will meet on Friday evening at the residence of 'Squire Smith on Bishop street. The Crittenden Cadets will assemble at the residence of Gen. James A. Beaver on the same evening. Each of these gatherings will meet at 7 o'clock instead of 7.30 as heretofore.

—The churches and Sunday schools were largely attended on Sunday.

Light on an Old Subject.

The "Gas Company" which is just now ambitious to become also a Steam Heating, Electric Lighting and Motive Power company is a somewhat peculiar organization and it is proper that our councilmen and others should have all the information regarding it that it is possible to give at this important stage of human affairs. The name of its stockholders is "Legion"—there are scores of them—and the council is the largest stockholder of them all, excepting possibly a gentleman named Helm, of Philadelphia, who seems to make a specialty of gas investments and has stock in gas companies all over the land. Despite the outrageous price of gas in Bellefonte, we believe the stock has never paid very large dividends even in the halcyon days of its greatest prosperity. But it is considered valuable property to own and if any business man desires to invest in it the council will sell out to him, and it does seem more appropriate for an individual to own the stock just now than for the council to own it, as the propriety of council investing the people's money in what has about it the least semblance of a business venture, is certainly somewhat questionable.

—A railroad meeting at Mackeyville, Clinton county, on Saturday, attracted a large number of prominent citizens and land owners of that vicinity. Among those in attendance were J. L. Spangler and D. H. Hastings, Esqs., of this place. The farmers of that vicinity are not yet alive to the desirability of a railroad, and more opposition was encountered from them than from any citizens among whom such a meeting has been held. In the vicinity of Hublersburg and Clintondale the desire for a road is much stronger. Yet Mackeyville is the place it will benefit the most. It will be the eastern terminus of the road and before a road is there a year the property in that vicinity will double in value. A committee was appointed to secure the right of way and after a free and full expression of opinion the meeting adjourned.

—The Lutheran denomination of this place are discussing the expediency of getting up a Luther memorial service, in which all the Lutheran churches in the county, and probably in the adjoining counties, will participate. It will be a favorable opportunity, they believe, to revive more fully the life and labor of that great man whose influence was so potent in the affairs of the religious and civil world, whose work was, perhaps, more effectual in reviving the spirit of liberty than that of any man who ever lived. This is the time when such services seem to be particularly appropriate and we hope the scheme will be carried out.

—The Presbyterian Mite Society at the residence of Mrs. E. T. Tuten Friday evening was a success. There were about three times as many present as usually attend such gatherings and the refreshments were entirely exhausted. It was considered one of the pleasantest meetings of the Mite Society ever held. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves and will look forward with pleasurable anticipations for the next meeting.
